Marin Pair Believes Skipper Their Father

By MARY LEYDECKER

"We know it's him."

James Miller and his sister, Cheryl Miller Pedersen, who lives next door to him in Terra Linda, never gave up hope some day they would find the seagoing father they haven't seen in 23 years.

But "it was sure a funny way to find him," Mrs. Pedersen said last night, as she and Miller excitedly told of their belief that their long-lost father is the captain of the captured U.S. merchant ship, the Mayaguez.

Their eyes shining with happiness, the two pointed a fading snapshot of a young man holding a baby and a tattered newspaper with a ship and its captain on the front page.

"They are absolutely sure that the man in both pictures is Charles T. Miller, the merchant mariner who burst into the news this month with the capture of the Mayaguez by the Cambodians on May 12.

"I know it's him," Miller said. "I recognized his voice (on television) and he looks older but it's him. That's his nose."

Seated side by side on a sofa in the comfortable family room of Miller's house at 1011 Las Raposas Road, the brother and sister told of their long search for their father.

"He may have been looking for us, too," Miller said quietly at one point. "We moved a lot and Miller is such a common name . . . and Cheryl is married and her name is changed . . ."

The parents of the two were divorced when Miller was 6 and "she was just a baby," he said, gesturing toward his sister.

For several years, the man they remember as "having such big arms" and seeming "like Ghengis Khan" used to appear at their home in San Francisco when he returned from ocean voyages.

Often he came right before Christmas, "and I remember he used to take us to a store in Oakland and we could pick out anything we wanted," Mrs. Pedersen continued.

Then the Miller children and their mother "moved a couple of times" and the visits from the father, shown in a 35-year-old snapshot holding baby James,

The last word came in 1953, when Miller, then captain of a ship, sent a newspaper from Karachi, showing a picture of him and his ship, the first American vessel bringing wheat into the Pakistani port.

Young Miller was 12 years old, almost 13, he said, when the last word came.

Through the years he and his sister have made good lives for themselves.

Very close, they now not only live next door to each other "but we take vacations together." Miller's wife, Denise, nestled at his feet as he talked, and Mrs. Pedersen's husband, Bill, was next door minding some of the couple's four children.

Gale Rips Through Marin

Gale force winds swept through Marin yesterday, through the night and into this morning, toppling trees and wires and buffeting cars with the force of a winter storm.

The Air Force weather station atop Mount Tamalpais reported the winds reached 55 miles an hour and perhaps higher in gusts.

The winds, still brisk in some areas today, were expected to diminish to 20 miles an hour this afternoon.

One gust blew the front of the Marin Laundry, 700 A Street, San Rafael, back into the counter area, leaving a tangle of glass and metal.

"I couldn't believe it," said manager William Tachovet when he examined the damage last night.

Robert H. Williams, electrical superintendent, Pacific Gas and Electric Co., reported "a lot of outages scattered throughout the county, but no major ones. We had three crews working all night."

In Mill Valley a large redwood tree toppled on Millside Lane and was still blocking the roadway this morning, and a small bay tree was blown down on Cottage Avenue.

The Marin County public works department reported a tree down in Kent Woodlands and another in Greenbrae and the San Rafael Public Works Department reported a mulberry tree down in the Glenwood area.

The winds also ripped out a 20-foot section of an eight-foot-high fence at the Lee Jones residence, 545 Comstock Drive, Tiburon.

San Anselmo had five reports of arcing wires resulting from fallen limbs between 5:50 and 9:30 p.m. The Marin County Fire Department reported an arcing wire along San Pedro Road near Bud's Landing, Santa Venetia area.

In Strawberry, arcing wires along Richardson Drive caused a minor grass fire.

The weather bureau reported the high winds resulted from air rushing across the state from a high pressure area along the coast to a low pressure area inland.

The wind brought snow to the Sierra and Highway 50 in the mountains was closed westbound for a while because of icy conditions. Three inches of snow fell between Reno and Carson City.

In San Francisco the Great Highway along Ocean Beach was closed because of sand blowing across the roadway. An airplane was blown over at San Carlos Airport.

A stalemate over wage increases and fringe benefits has forced the city's negotiations with San Rafael firemen to mediation.

The city council last night called for fact-finding and mediation after a two-hour public session at which the Firemen's Association and the city aired their proposals and at times flared into mutual recrimination.

Meeting afterward in a brief closed session, the council announced that attorney Richard H. Briener would mediate for the city.

The Firemen's Association must appoint a mediator within five days. The two in turn will appoint a third member to the mediation team, City Mgr. William J. Bielser said.

The mediation team's decision would be advisory to the city council and the firemen's union, he said.

The city negotiating team and the firemen's union representatives had reached an impasse after three negotiating sessions which resulted in bitterness on both sides.

The firemen's attorney Alan Davis last night repeated earlier requests of the city council for binding arbitration and a closed session to work out some compromise. But City Atty. Harry A. Connick repeated his ruling that a closed session with the council would be illegal under the Ralph M. Brown Act.

Fire District Hearing Draws Board Refusal

The Novato Fire Protection District board last night declined to reset a special hearing requested tomorrow by local residents to probe district affairs.

On a 4-to-1 vote, with Chairman Henry V. Alvermaz dissenting, the board agreed to await a report from the county grand jury, which is also investigating the district. That report is expected by the end of the month.

As reported earlier, a citizens' group headed by A. L. Gielegem has requested a hearing to question board members on the causes for former chief James W. Kidder's resignation.

Gielegem said he also wants to discuss district financial matters.

The meeting had been set for tomorrow but last week it was postponed indefinitely to await the grand jury's report.

Fire district officials said the postponement was at the request of Gielegem, who responded last night that his suggestion of a delay depended on conditions not met.

He urged the board to reset the hearing as originally scheduled, adding that many residents already have been altered to attend.

Acting Chief Charles A. Onorato noted, however, that Gielegem had agreed as late as Friday to the delay. "What happened over the weekend to change his mind?" Onorato asked.

Following lengthy debate over what was and wasn't said at last week's meeting, the board voted 4 to 1 to delay the matter pending the jury's report.

Russ Trawler Spends Night In Drake's Bay

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Russian trawling vessel, the Opala, spent most of Saturday night at anchor in Drake's Bay, the Coast Guard revealed yesterday.

The vessel, about the size of the Polish trawler being held by U.S. authorities in San Francisco, was granted permission from Washington, D.C., to seek haven in Drake's Bay so it would remove fouled fishing nets from a propeller. It was accompanied by a Russian tug, the Coast Guard said.

Irvine Company Revealed As Eying Hamilton Trade

Southern California Firm Officials Visit Marin Today

By ERIK M. INGRAM

A major Southern California development company is negotiating with the military for possible acquisition of Hamilton Air Force Base, it was learned today.

Local officials, in releasing the name of the Irvine Company of Newport Beach, said they had no details of the negotiations or what the firm plans for the air base.

The firm is best known for its "new town" concept used to create the City of Irvine in Orange County where it controls a vast holding.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, in lifting a week-long veil of secrecy over the firm's identity, said he planned to meet with company representatives today to discuss details of the deal.

Indications are that the Navy would like to trade up to 1,700 acres of Hamilton for land elsewhere owned by the firm. What is involved in the proposed trade is as yet unknown to local officials.

Irvine officials toured the base this morning and were slated for a luncheon meeting with Baptiste and Novato city officials at the officers' club.

That a deal was in the works first became public knowledge last when Baptiste, Novato City Mgr. Phillip J. Brown and Councilman David E. Milano reported on a recent trip to Washington, D.C. All declined to name the firm at that time.

Brown today said he does not think the giant development firm yet has definite plans for the base. "This is their first look at it," he said.

"They have an excellent reputation," the city manager continued, adding the firm will decide what kinds of development best suit the base as part of its decision whether to make the trade.

On a related matter, the Hamilton Community Association was told last night that the Navy plans to assume control over an additional 90 acres of the center of the base.

James O. Alexander, president of the association, said the area the Navy wants includes community support facilities such as service buildings, the chapel, swimming pool, tennis courts and other recreational facilities.

The Navy is landlord of most base housing plus the commissary, exchange and theater, among other things.

Alexander said what the Navy acquires must be operated out of a limited fund for operating housing.

He and base officials were unaware this morning that the Irvine Company is the firm contemplating a trade for portions of the base.

The base commander's office was simply told by the Navy that representatives of a private firm would be touring the base.

The Irvine Company was formed 110 years ago to control the sprawling 83,000-acre Irvine Ranch in Orange County.

Besides the City of Irvine, it also has been involved in the development of portions of Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, Santa Ana, Laguna Beach and other Orange County communities.

About 60,000 acres of the original ranch remain undeveloped but portions are planned for future growth. Besides its Orange County holdings, the firm has about 100,000 acres in Montana and 6,000 acres of agricultural land in the Imperial Valley.

A spokesman for the company said Mobil Oil is currently negotiating for purchase of the James Irvine Foundation, major stockholder of the firm.

Corte Maderans Urge Saving Land On Ridge

The Marin County Parks, Recreation and Open Space Commission should reconsider its decision not to buy certain ridgetands in Corte Madera as open space, the Corte Madera Town Council decided last night.

At issue is the 300-acre Deffebach property on Ring Mountain separating Corte Madera from Tiburon, about 74 acres of which are within the Corte Madera town limits.

The county commission concluded April 23 that the land is too costly and voted instead to allow it to go through the development process.

That does not necessarily mean the land will be developed, according to Corte Madera Councilman Herber C. Leney, the town's representative on the county parks commission.

Instead, the county may impose controls through the development process, See LAND, page 4

Reagan Leading In National Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan was described yesterday as the overwhelming favorite in a national presidential-preference poll conducted by the Conservative Party of New York State.

State Conservative Chairman J. Daniel Mahoney said Reagan received 46 per cent of the vote in the poll of Conservative supporters. Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater was second with 10.5 per cent.

Bomb Damages A Shed At San Quentin Prison

A bomb exploded at San Quentin Prison's rifle range yesterday, damaging a storage shed. An underground group calling itself the New World Liberation Front claimed it set the blast.

No one was hurt in the early morning explosion.

Prison information officer William A. Merkle said a newsman called the prison at 3:45 a.m., inquiring about a bombing, but it was not until daybreak that the damaged shed was discovered.

The letters NWLF were spray painted on a nearby wall.

Merkle said the prison made no announcement of the explosion until yesterday afternoon because investigators at the scene would have been hampered by newsmen.

The rifle range is located about a quarter-mile outside the prison walls across Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The blast knocked part of the open-air shed off its foundation and blew a hole in the roof. Merkle said the structure will be replaced at a cost of around $4,000.

It contained only a few silhouette targets and other supplies, but no ammunition or weapons, he said.

In a three-page letter received by San Francisco radio station KPOO, the New World Liberation Front claimed it set the

Brown's Budget Means Dip Into Reserves; No Tax Hike

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. told the Legislature today that under his first proposed budget the state would spend $257 million more than it collects from taxpayers.

The upshot would be that the previously projected tax surplus on July 1, 1976, of $374 million will dwindle to only $349 million, a drop of about $225 million.

The new governor's director of finance, Roy M. Bell, made the disclosure at a joint meeting of the budget-writing Assembly Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee where he announced the administration's revised revenue figures.

"In order to avoid future painful tax increases," Bell said, the state must not

Flower-Bedecked Reds Enter Laotian Town

SAVANNAKHET, Laos (UPI) — The Communist Pathet Lao made a triumphal entry into this central Laotian town today aboard a flower-bedecked convoy of Russian tanks and trucks. Twelve Americans held here under house arrest by students were in good condition.

Savannakhet, a town of about 30,000 persons on the Mekong River, was the last remaining major town on the loyalist, or non-Communist side.

Unlike elsewhere in Indochina, Laos has a working peace agreement and the Laotians are a people who probably would not have gone to war if left to themselves. So there were no scenes of surrender, but instead one of welcome.

While the march of welcome was underway, six U.S. AID officials and their wives remained at home under token house arrest.

GIFT PORTRAIT — First Lady Betty Ford smiles while standing in front of a new portrait of herself. The painting was presented to her last night by the National Art Association and she was named "Distinguished Woman of the Year" at a Beverly Hills dinner.

Opulent California Dinner Pays Homage To First Lady

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) — Some 400 wealthy Californians, including many Republican stalwarts, contributed at least $100 each to pay tribute to Betty Ford last night at an opulent fund raising dinner for the arts.

Dressed in a filmy flowered evening gown and sporting a new bouffant hairdo by a Beverly Hills hairdresser, the first lady was honored as the National Art Association's "Distinguished Woman of the Year" and was presented with a huge oil portrait of herself by Frances O'Farrell.

"I am absolutely delighted with the portrait," Mrs. Ford told the crowd of businessmen, politicians and Hollywood stars. "I just wish I looked that well."

The diners included such noted Republicans as Bob Hope, former Secretary of State William P. Rogers, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch, Nancy Reagan and industrialist Armand Hammer.

Art Linkletter served as master of ceremonies. Comedian Jonathan Winters and singer Helen Reddy performed.

The dinner was the primary reason for Mrs. Ford's four-day trip to the West Coast. She flies today to San Diego to visit the nationally famous city zoo and will attend another another black tie affair tonight at the San Diego Fine Arts Gallery.

The trip, her first major solo venture since recovering from surgery for breast cancer, followed White House denials of rumors that Mrs. Ford's health might prevent the President from seeking a full term next year. Although she denied the trip was designed to prove her stamina as a political campaigner, her remarks to the California dinner indicated she intended to return to California soon, possibly in that role.

Cambodia Boat Mutiny Puzzles Thai Officials

BANGKOK (UPI) — The crew of a Cambodian gunboat believed to have been involved in the seizure of the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez has defected to Thailand, government sources said today.

The sources said the gunboat arrived last week at Sattahip, 100 miles south of Bangkok, dropped anchor off the Gulf of Thailand port and the crew asked for asylum.

The crew told officials in a Thai boarding party that the ship had taken part in the capture of the Mayaguez May 12 near Koh Tang, an island off the Cambodian coast.

One government source said the Cambodian vessel was later moved to a Thai navy base at Sattahip, the port serving the U.S.-run U Tapao Air Base.

Government sources said Thailand, anxious to maintain good relations with the new Communist leaders in Cambodia, was unsure what to do about the defection.

U.S. officials refused comment.

The Washington Post said the crew threw the captain overboard before sailing to Thailand and pledged allegiance to the former Cambodian government.

The newspaper said the Thai government, in an attempt to avoid acknowledging the incident, painted over the Cambodian markings on the ship and hung a Thai flag from the mast.

The newspaper said reports of the mutiny started arriving in Washington Friday, two days after U.S. Marines retrieved the ship and 40-man crew, which had been captured by Khmer Rouge forces while sailing toward Sattahip, Thailand.

The mutineers, after throwing the captain overboard, then made port in Sattahip, the Post said. The newspaper reported that they and the ships had been pressed into service of the Khmer Rouge.

The Post said the mutiny "has become a source of acute political embarrassment and nervousness for the Thai government," which has been trying to seek an accommodation with the Khmer Rouge and the Viet Cong in Vietnam.

"They are trying to make the boat disappear (by) painting over the hull number markings and putting on new flags," the Post quoted one U.S. official as saying.

Sato Near Death

TOKYO (UPI) — Former Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato lay unconscious and near death today atop a quilt-covered straw mat in a Tokyo Geisha restaurant where he was felled by a stroke while attending a meeting of business leaders.

Sato, 74-year-old statesman who helped transform postwar Japan into an economic giant and then won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1974, was reported to be removed to a hospital.

Prime Minister Takeo Miki and other high figures of Japan's conservative political world streamed past the improvised bed in the traditional Shinkiraku restaurant in downtown Tokyo where Sato collapsed last night.

Sato's personal physician, Dr. Yasushi Ueda of Jikei University hospital, said that Sato's condition was critical and had worsened. He said Sato's blood pressure had dropped, and that his pulse had increased from 80-90 last night to 100-106 this morning.

Sabotage Found

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The TWA jetliner that crashed into the Ionian Sea near Greece last September killing all 88 aboard was sabotaged by a bomb hidden in a suitcase.

A National Transportation Safety Board report yesterday said it apparently was the second sabotage attempt within 13 days on the airline's Israel-New York route.

The report left open the possibility both bombs, the one that failed last Aug. 26 and the one that went off Sept. 8, were put aboard by passengers willing to die in order to destroy the plane.

Shooting Talks

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Religious and political personalities consulted Lebanese and Palestinian leaders today to prevent a post-midnight shooting incident from escalating into a major crisis.

Residents of Beirut's Dikwaneh suburb said heavy gunfire was heard during the night involving machine guns and mortars in the vicinity.

Test In Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's decision to veto a federal strip mining bill for the second time in five months now faces an immediate and crucial Capitol Hill test.

Even before Ford formally signs his veto message sometime before midnight tonight, environmentalists and others supporting the measure are gearing up for a strong attempt to override the veto.

Italian Strike

ROME (UPI) — More than a million government workers went on strike today in a week of nationwide walkouts halting trains and planes, closing schools and suspending medical care.

The strikes came less than a month before the June 15 regional elections in which the Communists are challenging the Christian Democrats' claim to be Italy's dominant party.

Call For Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO called on Congress today to spend $10 billion to provide public service jobs for 1 million of the 8.2 million unemployed Americans.

Kenneth Young, an AFL-CIO lobbyist, said in testimony prepared for a Senate Labor and Public Welfare Subcommittee that "dropping unemployment is the way to cure the deficit problem, not to mention human suffering."

Confrontation

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — The armed forces has overturned a decree by President Juan Maria Bordaberry, touching off a top level confrontation in Uruguay.

The military last night ordered Bordaberry to reinstate a fired government official and barred the Uruguayan press from publishing any statements by the president without armed forces approval.

Brezhnev Illness

MOSCOW (UPI) — Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist party, again is resting for medical treatment, Western diplomatic sources said today.

But they said there is no serious concern this time about Brezhnev's health. He is 68.

Senate Lifts Embargo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted to lift the embargo on U.S. military aid to Turkey, giving a narrow vote of confidence to the Ford-Kissinger efforts at seeking a Cyprus settlement.

The Senate voted 41-40 to suspend the embargo, which has been in effect since Feb. 5.

The House still must act. Voting against the bill were California Democrats Alan Cranston and John Tunney.

Oil Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's energy administrator says the administration's plan for taking controls off oil prices is so gradual the American motorist will hardly notice.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb said yesterday the plan is going ahead because "the nation cannot afford to wait indefinitely for the Congress to enact a decontrol plan of its own."

Fishing Boat Claim

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An attorney for the Polish trawler Kalmars says the ship, was fishing outside the 12-mile territorial limit when seized by the United States.

Attorney Lester Clark said yesterday the 278-foot ship, now docked under guard at Pier 9 in San Francisco, should be released and suits filed against its alleged infringement of territorial waters dropped.

Rail Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opening his long-promised drive to ease government regulation of industry, President Ford has proposed legislation that would make it easier for railroads to raise or lower freight rates.

The legislation, sent to Congress yesterday, also would allow railroads to borrow up to $2 billion directly from the federal government at low interest rates, but with an important string attached: the Transportation Department could require two or more railroads to combine facilities or even to merge as a condition of getting a loan.

Assault Teams Win Plaudits For Action To Take Mayaguez

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (UPI) — The U.S. Marines who helped retake the cargo ship Mayaguez and its crew filed off the aircraft carrier Coral Sea and the guided missile destroyer Wilson today to the tunes of "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Waltzing Matilda."

The Marines, some wounded, were met by Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Houghton, commander of the 3rd Marine Division, who told them, "I am proud of you. So is your country."

Cmdr. J. Michael Rogers, captain of the Wilson, which picked up the Mayaguez crew Thursday morning while the Marines were on Koh Tang Island, said that when the crew first approached his ship in a Thai fishing boat, spotter planes thought it was a gunboat.

He said the Wilson was preparing to prevent the "gunboat" from closing in when the spotters reported about 20 men waving white flags made of T-shirts.

"They drew alongside, shouting, 'We are Americans. We are the crew of the Mayaguez. It's good to see you. Good to see the old U.S. Navy,'" he said.

Rear Adm. Robert P. Coogan, commander of attack carrier strike force 77 who directed naval airstrikes on the Cambodian mainland during the Mayaguez incident, said U.S. warplanes pounded targets at Ream Air Force Base and Naval station near the port town of Sihanoukville.

However, the admiral refused to assess bomb damage.

"It is not my prerogative—and it would give useful information to the wrong people, the people we hit and their friends," he said.

The Marine major who led a 59-man party which boarded the Mayaguez off the coast of Cambodia said the Cambodians holding the ship apparently "had opened several containers, apparently trying to establish whether the (Mayaguez) was carrying military cargo or not."

Maj. Raymond E. Porter, 38, said his armed Marine boarding party climbed aboard the Mayaguez from the deck of the destroyer USS Hilt, ready to return hostile fire with .50 caliber and M16 rifles.

But the ship was empty.

"When we boarded, the tear gas was really thick. We divided up into search teams and went over the whole ship, deck by deck.

"There was nothing destroyed or misplaced.

"At 8:22 a.m. we raised the American flag."

TODAY'S WORLD

"One of the unexpected benefits of a recession — you get mugged by a better class of person."

Ford Issues Call For Patriotism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today disparaged Americans who "roll over in self pity and helplessness," and he exhorted the nation once again to demonstrate the patriotism and willpower of the 13 original colonies.

It was his second speech in three days urging Americans to rise above the difficulties of recent times to become "strong and unified in our national purpose."

Evangelist Billy Graham was invited to share the platform with Ford today.

Ford was to fly to Charlotte, N.C., to give the speech at its Freedom Day celebration. An advance copy of the speech was made available here.

Ford planned a morning meeting with the Republican congressional leadership. His five-hour trip to Charlotte will be one of his last major activities before leaving for Europe next week.

"At the time of the American revolution, some said that America could not defy the odds that confronted us," Ford said. "There were some who would roll over and prostrate themselves in self pity and hopelessness. But there were many more who said, 'We are Americans. We can do it.'"

"We must rise above the divisions that have scarred our national life in recent times. We must once again become one people strong and unified in our national purpose," Ford said.

The President praised the South for its "great breakthroughs" in education and industry.

"But it is not statistics that inspires us today," Ford said. "It is the spirit of the people. It is the patriotism and the dedication and the willpower of the 13 original states which still live in the South and across America."

Fired Ferryboat Skipper Sues To Regain Job, Lost Paychecks

An Angel Island ferryboat operator fired in the wake of charges of drinking while on duty has appealed to Marin Superior Court to get his job back. Graeme M. Gowin, 38, an operator with three years' experience, said the evidence cited by the state Personnel Board in upholding his dismissal was inadequate and that the board exceeded its authority. Gowin asked a court order to reinstate him with back pay. According to the suit, Gowin was arrested by Tiburon police last Sept. 10 on suspicion of being drunk in public and later was charged with marijuana possession when four grams of the drug reportedly were found during a search. Although the charges later were dismissed, Gowin was suspended and then fired following a hearing in February. Gowin was said to have been seen drinking in a Tiburon bar last May between ferryboat runs and was said to have had alcohol on his breath on an afternoon run three months later.

Ross Teachers Get 3.5 Pct. Pay Increase

Teachers in the Ross School District will receive a 3.5 per cent pay raise in 1975-76, the district board said last night. Trustees picked the figure because it is equal to the amount by which the district may increase its revenues over the current year's under state legislation, according to board president Thomas Guerin. The increase in salary scale is in addition to the annual automatic five per cent step increase.

Teachers wanted 11.5 per cent. The action came as the board reviewed a revised 1975-76 budget proposal submitted by Supt. Thomas A. Anderson.

It increases the amount budgeted for regular teachers' salaries from $401,949 to $416,017, and the amount for general education from $483,436 to $494,213. The revised budget allowed for no increases other than normal step increases.

Trustees made other revisions, raising total expenditures from $708,447 to $713,634. The new figures, with previous figures in parentheses:

Audiovisual, $2,860 ($2,860); library, $28,040 ($28,872); local school administration, $40,335 ($41,323); business services, $10,137 ($10,057); district administration, $29,261 ($29,763); operations, $49,342 ($52,445).

The Ross School District board also:

KINDERGARTEN — Voted to have a combined kindergarten-first grade class next year, in addition to one kindergarten and one first grade class. The district now has two kindergarten and two first-grade classes, but one teacher is leaving next year.

ADVISORY — Told incoming Supt. William M. Cooper to report back Oct. 31 after reviewing a report by a citizens advisory committee on residents' curriculum preferences.

U.S. Bans Sale Of Pet Turtles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said today it will ban the sale of pet turtles believed responsible for thousands of cases of illness in the United States every year.

The agency said FDA Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt signed the order late yesterday after considering it since mid-March. The order bans the sale in interstate commerce of the small pet turtles.

The turtles are carriers of salmonella bacteria which can cause diarrhea, stomach cramps and similar symptoms and which can be particularly severe in children.

Tempers Flare, Deadlock Results Over Store Plans

A Larkspur developer's plan for a convenience market last night deadlocked the Petaluma City Council.

Builder Robert L. Carmody appeared before the council to appeal planning commission requirement of an environmental impact report on his proposed Seven-Eleven store at Petaluma Boulevard South and D Street.

The planning body had voted 4-2 to require the impact study, Planning Director Frank B. Gray said, because most members believed the store would cause traffic problems and its 24-hour beer and wine sales would adversely affect Walnut Park across D Street.

"It's not a moral issue," Gray said, "but an issue of what additional staff services, if any, will be required." Chief of Police Larry D. Higgins had recommended against the beer and wine license, saying it would stimulate alcohol abuse in the park and thus require extra patrols.

Rev. Roland Bond, a planning commissioner, appeared before the council last night to object to the license, saying the park was frequented by mothers and children and was used at times by Sunday school students as "sort of a nature walk." Such uses, he said, would not be compatible with alcohol.

Carmody said he has built about 15 similar stores around the state and has never been required to produce an impact report, "not even at Lake Tahoe where there's an environmentalist in every tree."

Carmody said the issues of traffic and alcohol should be treated separately.

He said a traffic engineer he hired reported that the store would produce relatively little traffic increase, based on comparisons made at another of his Petaluma stores.

And as for beer and wine, he said, a pizza parlor half a block from the park already sells carry-out six packs, and the park remains serene.

Carmody questioned how an impact report, which under state law he would have to finance, could be fair with an applicant paying for it.

Gray replied that the city would actually hire the report consultant and supervise him. He estimated a report on Carmody's project would cost "up to $2,000."

"This is an assault on my project in the guise of an impact report," Carmody said. "Someone in this town doesn't think I can afford it." Here followed an exchange between Carmody and Gray in which tempers flared and Gray denied that city officials were conspiring to prevent the store from being built.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, who also sits on the planning commission and was one of the two who supported Carmody at the earlier hearing, proposed finding that Carmody's project needs no report.

Kissinger, Gromyko Finish Talk, Plan More Meetings

VIENNA (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today he and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko made progress on the issues they discussed — the Middle East, control of nuclear arms and the European Security conference sought by Russia.

He said Soviet-American relations are essential for the peace and progress of mankind.

Kissinger spoke to newsmen at the airport after he and Gromyko ended two days of talks with an agreement to meet again soon to discuss nuclear disarmament and the Middle East.

"We agreed to meet again in the near future," Kissinger said at the end of a six-hour meeting at the Soviet embassy.

A smiling Gromyko nodded agreement.

Kissinger and Gromyko spoke to newsmen under the trees in the front yard of the Soviet embassy before Kissinger went to the airport to fly to the west German capital of Bonn on his four-day tour of Europe.

"We had a very useful discussion," Kissinger said.

"I agree with what the secretary has said," Gromyko said.

They did not say where their next meeting would be.

It was Kissinger's first meeting with Gromyko following the Communist conquest of South Vietnam and Cambodia.

The two officials also discussed the Kremlin's call for a European Security Conference aimed at recognizing the post-World War II East-West division of Europe.

Petaluma Council Approves Sale Of Surplus Water To Marin

The Petaluma City Council last night authorized Mayor Helen Putnam to sign an agreement allowing the Marin Municipal Water District to purchase up to 4,300 acre-feet of surplus Russian River Aqueduct water during the rainy season each year, when the pipeline carries more than Petaluma and other prime customers require.

The Marin agency has agreed to buy at least 2,500 acre-feet a year, and its participation is expected to lower the water cost for other customers from $3 to $9 an acre-foot beginning in 1977 when the pipeline begins operation.

The Petaluma City Council also:

TELEVISION — Authorized Sonoma Community Television to videotape council sessions, beginning in July, for broadcast over the local cable system the day after meetings. Councilman Robert Daly sarcastically congratulated the TV firm for not asking the city to pay for the taping as did a Petaluma radio station a year ago.

REVENUE SHARING — Set a special meeting for 7:30 p.m. May 30 to hear local organizations request shares of the $333,000 in revenue sharing funds the city expects next fiscal year.

GROWTH BOARD — Set a special meeting 4 p.m. May 27 to meet with the residential development allotment board to establish housing construction quotas for the next year.

Federal Stance On Pot Shifting?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has quietly backed away from its long standing position against decriminalizing marijuana, at least temporarily.

A spokesman said yesterday the department has "no position" on the matter because Attorney General Edward H. Levi, in office only three months yet studied the issue.

The first indication of the new policy — or nonpolicy — came last week when Donald E. Miller of the department's Drug Enforcement Administration testified against a Senate decriminalization bill.

On a last-minute signal from the department's Office of Legislative Affairs, Miller drew a line through the final sentence of his prepared text that had said: "Therefore, the Department of Justice recommends against enactment of this legislation."

firemen the right to collect compensation for heart attacks suffered after retirement or other termination of employment.

HOSPITAL PULLOUT — Declined to make a recommendation to the Sonoma Local Agency Formation Commission on Rohnert Park's request to withdraw from the Petaluma Hospital District. "If they want to go then let 'em go," Councilman James H. Harberson summed up.

RADIOS — Approved spending $16,500 in federal criminal justice grants to purchase radios and a paging system for police and fire departments.

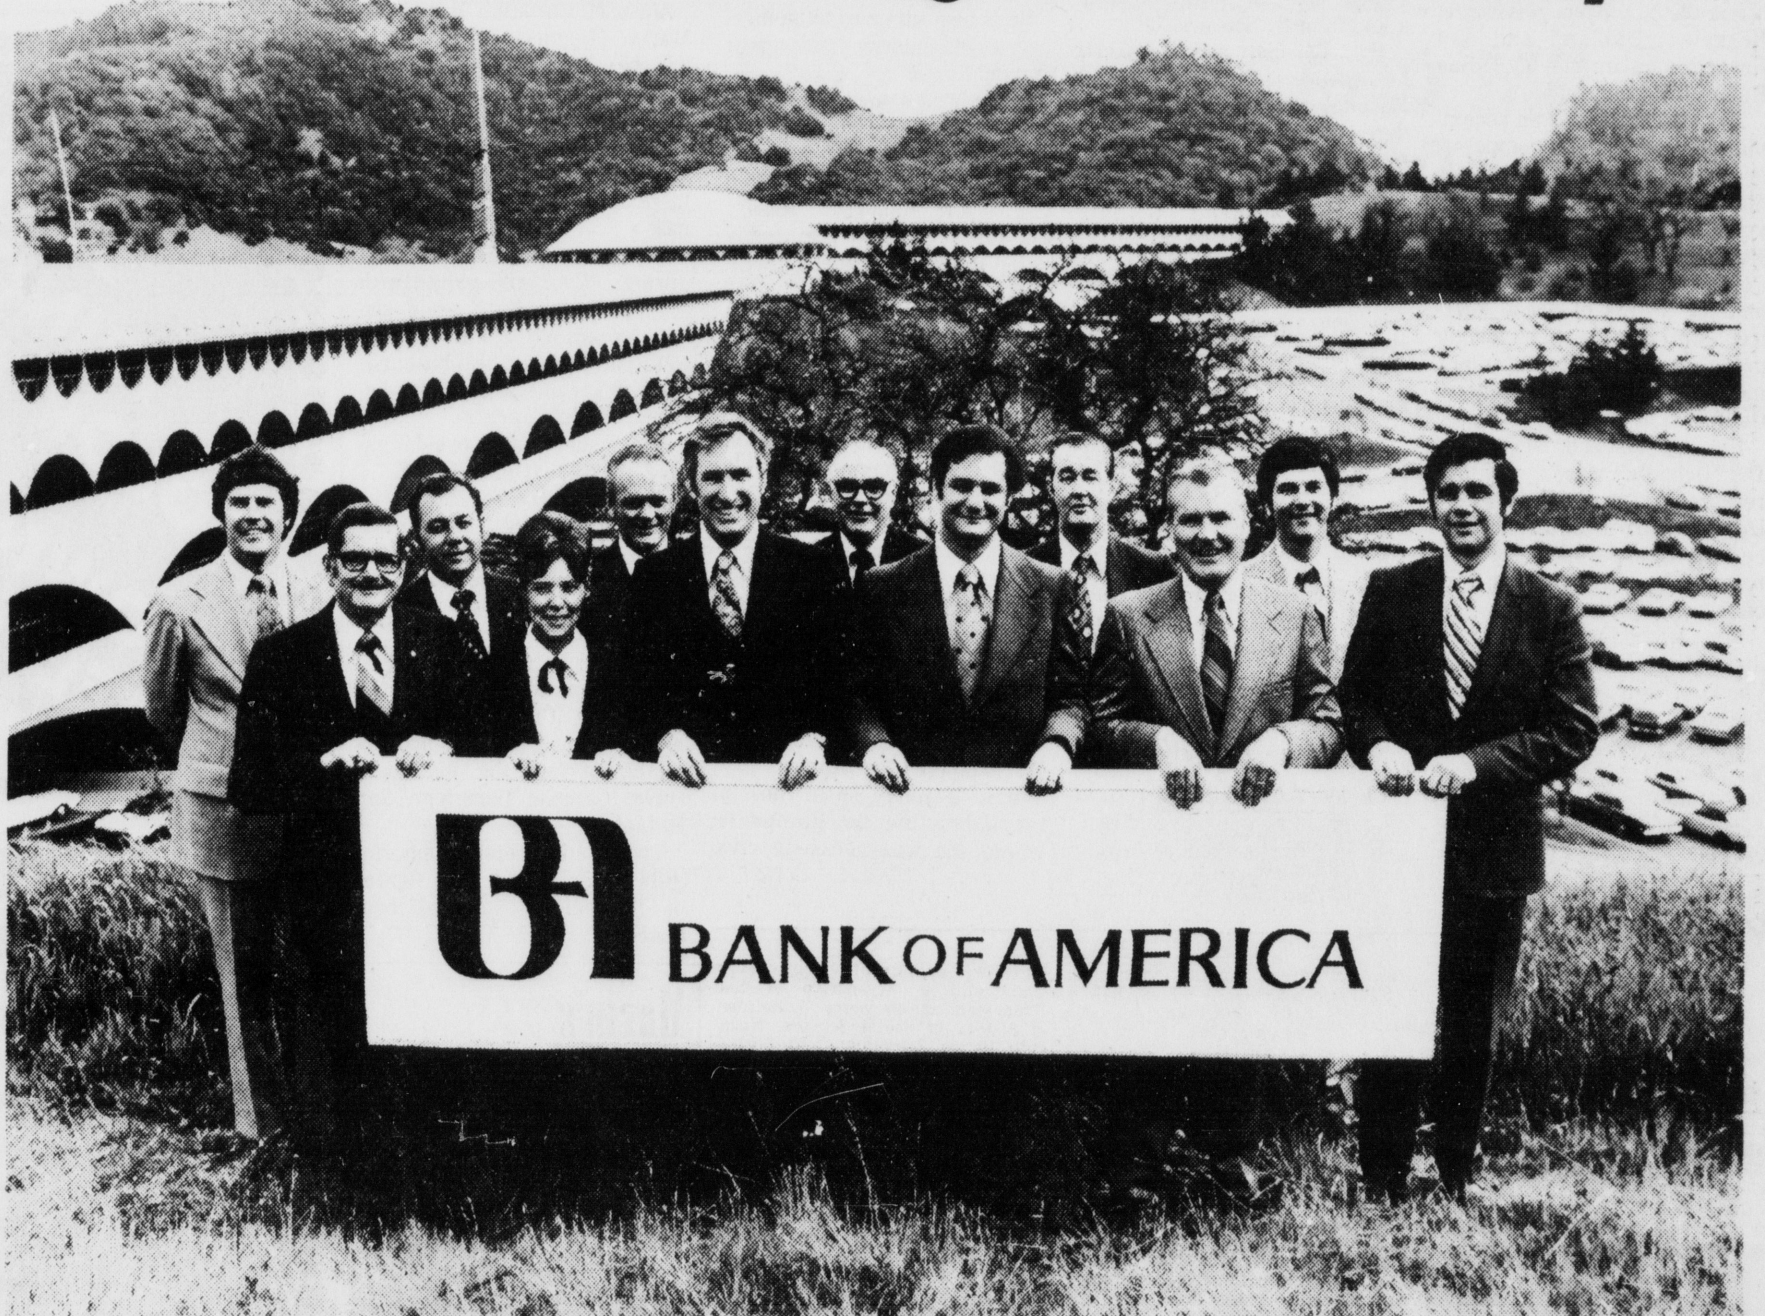

FIRE TRUCK — Authorized the exhibition of the city's turn-of-the-century, steam-powered fire pump at the June 7 Grand opening of the Golden Eagle shopping center on East Washington Street.

SESSION — Adjourned to a closed session to instruct City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer on salary negotiations with city employees.

Marin City Flea Market Squabble Shelved To June

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, confronted by bitter contention over who should run the Marin City flea market, today postponed action on the matter until June 17.

In the interim, current flea market lease holders Dennis Monahan and Arlene Atkinson will continue to operate the market, the board said.

At issue is a 3-2 decision by the Marin City Community Services District board giving the lease to two other entrepreneurs, Lindsey Cage and Leon Howard.

Kim Kruglick, attorney for Monahan, today submitted a lengthy document to supervisors charging numerous irregularities in award of the lease to Cage and Howard. Supervisors asked the community services district to respond to the charges in writing before June 17.

Supervisors have final say over the lease since the county leases the property to the district, which subleases it for the flea market.

Today's 80-minute debate on the leases was spiced with familiar charges from both sides. Testimony was colorful and conflicting, drawing laughter at points from both the board and the audience.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguere said he was concerned the district's award of the lease might have been based "on personalities and some things like that" rather than on the merits of the bidders.

One speaker claimed the matter was a racial issue, saying that Monahan was white and that Cage and Howard are black.

Hadden W. Roth, Attorney for Cage and Howard, said his clients are "straight shooters" and won the bid fairly.

QUENTIN BUILDING BOMBED

A building at San Quentin's rifle range is a shambles, although three jackets still hang neatly on their pegs. The building was heavily damaged in a bombing about 4 a.m. yesterday (see story, page 1), a bombing claimed by the New World Liberation Front.

Church Leaders Attack Sex Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Church leaders and activists have launched a referendum drive aimed at repealing California's laws legalizing all private sex acts between consenting adults.

The Coalition of Christian Citizens yesterday said it hopes to block the law from taking effect Jan. 1 by gathering 312,404 signatures to put the issue on the June 1976 primary election ballot.

If enough signatures are collected, the effective date of the new law will be delayed pending the results of the election. Supporters have until Aug. 11 to gather the signatures.

The new law, signed last week by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., repeals criminal sanctions as old as 103 years governing the private sexual behavior of adults, including adultery. It has been informally called the "homosexuals bill of rights."

Contracts Let For Next Phase Of Huge Sewer Job

Work should begin in mid-June in San Anselmo and Fairfax on two more phases of installation of a new sewer trunk line, Ned J. Ongaro, district manager for the Ross Valley Sanitary District, said today.

He said the work should not disrupt commuters since no main thoroughfare will be affected.

The district board yesterday let a contract for $633,720 to McGuire and Hester for installation of the line from Saunders Avenue in San Anselmo to the Fairfax border. The other phase, from the Fairfax border to Pacheco Avenue in Fairfax, was contracted to Mission Pipeline for $419,547.

In other action, the board yesterday reviewed a budget that would keep spending at about $1.8 million, approximately the same figure as the current year, Ongaro said.

The proposed budget would allow the tax rate to decrease from the present $1 per $100 of assessed valuation to 85 cents, he said, because of increased assessed valuation in the district.

District taxpayers also can look forward in the next few years to further decreasing tax rates, he said, when the huge capital improvements the district has had to make are completed. After the main trunkline is completed, less major repairs of existing lines will be undertaken. Ongaro said they will be far less expensive than the replacement of the main line.

National Board Post To Marinite

Dr. Robert J. Eddy, a counselor at Novato High School, has been elected to the board of directors of the National Education Association.

Eddy's election to the policy making body came Sunday. His three-year, at-large term is one of six slots allocated to California on the national board. He won it over five other candidates to become the first Marin County educator to serve on the association board, which represents 1.7 million teachers.

Eddy, 50, lives at 13 Thornton Court, Novato, and serves on the state council of education. His new duties will involve five weekend meetings a year in Washington, D.C.

He has worked at Novato High School seven years and holds a doctorate in education.

San Rafael High Musicians Set Concert

The San Rafael High School concert and symphonic bands will present a spring concert at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the school auditorium.

The concert band, directed by Charlene Wilkerson, will play selections by Grundman, Erickson and Osterline and a medley of songs by Paul Simon.

The symphonic band, led by student conductors Curtis Jones, Timothy McCarthy, Kurt Giambastiani and Melinda McMullen will perform "Golden Gate," "Light Cavalry," highlights from "South Pacific," "Classical Overture," Michael Francis' "Dreams of a Psychopath" and the Sousa march, "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Measles Shots Hours Listed

Parents of children who need measles vaccinations may bring their youngsters to the county health clinic at 920 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, between 1:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays.

Vaccinations cost $2 per family per visit, according to Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

She said incidence of regular measles (not rubella or German measles) is high this year, with 144 cases reported since January. Only nine cases were reported during 1974, she said.

Some Of Those Finesses Will Have To Be Developed

Not all finesse are ready-made. Some must be developed from the raw material, either by your own efforts or by a helpful opponent.

CLUB FINESSE

Normally, South would go down at four hearts, losing two trump tricks, a spade and a diamond.

A good player wouldn't really lose a spade trick. He would try a club finesse in the hope of getting three club tricks and thus discarding a spade. But the normal club finesse would lose to East's queen, so South would lose a club instead of a spade.

HELPFUL LEAD

All of this is altered when West helpfully opens the ten of clubs. South can play dummy's jack without risk, for when East covers with the queen South can win with the ace.

Declarer next leads a trump to the ace, discovering the bad news when East fails to follow suit. The situation is grave, but not hopeless. South has a new and different club finesse to try.

Declarer gets to his hand "with the ace of spades and leads the eight of clubs. West plays low, and South lets the eight ride as a finesse against the ace. When this finesse works, South is home.

Declarer reaches the dummy with the ace of diamonds, discards a spade on the king of clubs, and gives up a diamond. He can later ruff a diamond in dummy to make sure of the contract.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

Keep your fingers crossed, for if your partner rebids his hearts, you may be in trouble. You must take this risk, however, since your hand may be good for a game in some other suit and you would lose this game if you passed the opening bid of one heart.

Lunar Eclipse Party Planned For Saturday

A star party to view an eclipse of the moon will be held Saturday beginning at dusk at the north end of the Corte Madera shopping center parking lot.

Our National Mania For Finding Fault

"There's a national mania for finding fault. Few in our society and almost none of our institutions have escaped the blight of accusation. We've honed the cutting edge of scapegoating until it is razor sharp. We're masters at the art of finding what is wrong with our churches, our schools, our professions, our businesses, our industries, and our government. Yet we refuse to accept responsibility for either the problems or the solutions."

Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, said that Friday in a speech to the Commonwealth Club in San Francisco.

RILES IS ALWAYS a forceful and inspiring speaker when he has something to say. He had something very much worth saying Friday.

"We've been mesmerized," he said, "by prophets of doom to believe that America is having one last orgy of venality before it self-destructs. Americans have been conned and gulled by a few charlatans traveling under the guise of sociologists, economists, and political scientists to believe that we're a condemned race tottering on the brink of moral and financial collapse."

It isn't so, he told his audience of business and professional leaders. But it will be so if we all sit around and deplore the decline and do nothing about it.

If the public schools need improving, Riles told his listeners, in effect, it's up to the public to see they are improved. If crooks get into government, it's up to the voters to replace them with honest men. If the administration of justice is faulty, it's up to the public to force correction of its faults.

RILES'S MESSAGE was not new. What he had to say has been said before — but not much lately.

Lately, as he noted, we have been too wrapped up in fault-finding (which is easy) to do much fault-correcting (which is harder).

There has been a lot of talk about "getting involved." But "getting involved" has too often meant organizing to attack our institutions — not organizing to improve them.

Along with this goes a malady Riles did not mention directly: The loss of self-reliance, the infantile yearning for a security blanket represented in the constant seeking — by educators and doctors, by local officials and even by many of the public — for handouts and pat "solutions" ground out by politicians and bureaucrats.

"IF WE ARE to halt the downward spiral of loss of faith and loss of hope," said Riles, "it's up to us to reject the comfort of passing the buck, of finding some external scapegoat to blame for our problems. It's up to us to accept responsibility for positive, remedial action."

No truer words were ever spoken.

HERBERT BRUCKER:

Sexual Equality — But Down With Unisex!

Androgynous — adj. 1. Having female and male characteristics in one; hermaphroditic.

There is no doubt that American society is moving apace toward androgyny. As the professional wisecracker said the other day, teen-agers now come in three genders: masculine, feminine, and guess.

All of which is, in a way, understandable. Today's generation has been made aware, principally by a rebellion on the part of the women's liberation movement, that a monstrous injustice has been visited on that half of our people who are women. In social and cultural status, in education, economic reward, and law, women have suffered discrimination. What makes it worse is that until recently we haven't even been aware of it. We mistook what is for what should be.

BECAUSE WE STILL have a long way to go, it remains an enduring need to end sex discrimination. At the same time there is increasing risk that, even as we undertake the necessary remedial actions, we have also entered upon a process of decline and fall that other societies before us once entered upon.

Nature made them male and female, a fundamental fact we ignore at our peril. This goes deeper than such surface manifestations as women wearing pants, or men replacing the old iron shirt of evening dress with frills and furbelows. Listen to a scholarly French historian, Amaury de Reincourt, who says in an exhaustively researched book called "Sex and Power in History:"

"The contemporary women's liberation drive toward a decrease in sexual differentiation, to the extent that it is leading toward androgyny and unisex values, implies a social and cultural death wish and the end of the civilization that endorses it. The scientific and historical records show that all the way from unicellular organisms to human beings, progress in evolution has been stimulated by an increase in sexual differentiation."

FEMINIST REVOLTS, de Reincourt tells us, wrecked Greece's civilization, and destroyed Rome's empire from within long before Alaric got around to finishing the job. To de Reincourt it is not male arrogance but nature itself that accounts for the historical record.

"Drat! Once more optimism attempts to raise its ugly head!"

Future Role Of Supreme Court May Hinge On Douglas Recovery

WASHINGTON — Invisible to the public eye, that ancient balancing act among the three independent powers — executive, legislative and judicial — has a new dramatic turn. How the ball, now in midair, finally comes down can determine the course of events for a long future.

At 76, Justice William O. Douglas is struggling to overcome the consequences of a severe stroke and stay on the Supreme Court. A year ago Douglas completed 35 years as a justice to establish a record for tenure.

He is a patient at New York University's Institute for Rehabilitation Medicine. This is the institution founded by Dr. Howard Rusk, a noted authority on physical rehabilitation.

Rusk recently told Douglas's friends here that the justice is making notable progress in recovering the use of his left arm and is working hard on the left leg. His left side was paralyzed by a stroke in December while he was on vacation in Nassau.

AT A PRESS conference held during the brief interval when he returned to the bench after a stay in Walter Reed hospital, Douglas said he had never given thought to retiring. Reporters suggested he was determined to stay on the bench so President Ford would have no chance to name a justice to replace him.

This would be the fifth judge on the high bench to be named by conservative presidents. A conservative majority, assuming Ford would appoint a "strict constructionist" in the Nixon formula, would be fixed at the pinnacle of the judicial system for years to come.

That is certainly one reason why Douglas' ardent backers in Washington are giving him all support in his struggle to take his place unimpaired on the Court. They are citing what they consider the unhappy precedent of an unelected president determining the course of judicial decision for perhaps a whole generation.

THIS IS THE ISSUE cutting so much deeper than the rash of daily headlines over war and peace. Richard Nixon named four members of the court: Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Harry A. Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell Jr., and William H. Rehnquist. Rehnquist, just turned 50, could expect to serve for many years. They have been in most cases a conservative bloc.

PAUL E. PETERZELL

A Couple Of Bureaucracies Get Down To Fight In Sewer

Public agencies traditionally accord one another all the courtesies of royalty, a practice no doubt designed to reassure the citizenry that their "servants" are taking good care of the public.

A rude noise, however, has erupted from the Regional Water Quality Control Board, and it is aimed at the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency. The regional board is in the business of policing polluters, and the legislature created BASSA to crack down on offenders who refuse to clean up their mess.

In a rare delegation of power, the Legislature authorized BASSA to build sewage systems and tax property owners without voter approval. The agency, however, never has exercised its power.

AT ISSUE is the failure of numerous septic tanks in Stinson Beach, which the regional board has ruled can be cured only by building a conventional sewage system. Voters in the community, however, rejected a bond issue to build such a system, objecting it would speed unwanted growth.

As a result of the vote, the regional board asked BASSA to step in and flex its considerable muscle and see that a system gets built. That was 13 months ago, and to date BASSA has flexed the muscles only of its paper-shuffling arm and word-producing machine.

The staff of the regional board today was to ask its board to adopt a resolution sharply rebuking the agency for its inaction. The document declares that BASSA "has been neither swift nor forceful," and urges it to report by July 1 just what action it will take to carry out its job.

The staff also takes strong exception to not mean that all men (and women!) are endowed with the same talents, still less that they should all be entitled to the same wealth. It does mean that all should have the same chance to acquire wealth — or education, or justice, or any other opportunity, rather than result.

One concludes that if women want to climb telephone poles in the middle of the night to repair storm damage, why not? Or if they want to pilot a 747, sit on the Supreme Court, or run for the Oval Office, who is to say they may as long as their performance is equal with that of men contenders?

FOR ALL THAT, there remain home and mother. And it remains unlikely that as many women as men will end up a combat infantryman, bulldozer operator or professional hockey players.

Simone de Beauvoir (who has long surpassed many a male author) began it all two decades ago with her book, "The Second Sex." The other day she was quoted as saying, "I would hate to see a world without men." To which men will surely answer, "Or without women." But, ladies, put away those pants.

Planning Commissioner Suggests 'Real Issues'

Your editorial May 13 concerning the proposed San Anselmo Creek Ordinance comes as no surprise in its total lack of objectivity and perspective.

Your paper doesn't help the cause of truth, either, by stating that under the proposed ordinance property owners couldn't even put up a doghouse or a birdbath. Truly a birdbrained observation.

I believe it should be brought out into the open that much of the leadership opposing this extremely mild ordinance may actually have other axes to grind which are conveniently not mentioned. One of the individuals is the owner of — or represents the owners of — extensive commercial property along the creek in downtown San Anselmo. The ordinance very likely could restrict the over-development of this property in the fashion that is commonplace in the town. Another individual is the owner of hillside property who is concerned with other aspects of the proposed general plan which may affect his holdings. Another individual is a member of the construction trade who is unhappy with the temporary building moratorium imposed during the formation of the general plan and who is opposed to specific individuals in the San Anselmo political scene.

No Treatment For Fractured Arm Because Of Malpractice Crisis

Last Thursday evening at 5:30 our 6-year-old son fell and fractured his arm. His arm was quite deformed from the fall so there was no doubt that it was indeed fractured. I immediately took him to Marin General Hospital's emergency room.

When I arrived, the nurse put in a call to our pediatrician and our orthopedist while the child was X-rayed. He had indeed fractured both bones in his left forearm. Presently both doctors called the hospital and I spoke with them. Both our pediatrician of 14 years and the orthopedist, to whom we have been going for the past 10 years said that they could not or would not do anything for him due to the medical malpractice insurance crisis here in Marin. I was told to take the boy to Healdsburg, Petaluma or San Francisco General.

When my husband arrived home from

I suggest that if these real issues would be openly and honestly discussed, it would enable a large number of concerned voters to make their decision on the May 27 ballot.

Destruction Of Buildings Likened To Abortion

An article in the I-J told of the old El Camino Theater building (Now Penney's Fourth Street store), built in the '20s but still standing sturdy and useful. It wasn't wanted in the '50s but it defied their efforts when "they brought in a huge demolition ball to try to batter the walls down, the ball just bounced like a balloon." It probably still has many years of service to give.

Not so fortunate was the courthouse annex. It wasn't wanted, either, so they called in the most experienced demolition expert in the Bay Area. The problem wasn't the building's size but its newness.

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

All over the country, graduating seniors are being told the world is waiting for them. Is that an opportunity, or an ambush?

Visiting your congressman in Washington shows you know he's an important person — but that won't keep him from reminding you of it anyway.

Henry Kissinger enjoyed his visit to Missouri so much that he's planning his next peace shuttle between Kansas City and St. Louis.

The final word from the Law of the Sea Conference at Geneva: "Club".

work at seven, we drove our son to U.S. Hospital in San Francisco where he eventually was casted and we arrived home at midnight. While we were waiting at U.C. Emergency, another boy from Greenbrae came in with a broken arm, also sent on from Marin General Emergency.

Now I realize that something must be done about the exorbitant insurance rates for doctors, but refusing to treat a child's broken arm is not the way to obtain public support. It is apparent that the medical profession is trying to make the public "feel the pinch" of the malpractice insurance situation, but such tactics as these cause me to wonder what role the Hippocratic oath plays in modern medicine.

Greenbrae.

JOYCE DUN

The expert said he didn't know how it would react because he had never demolished a building of such modern construction. What a waste when you consider the years of usefulness that were still in the building!

How much more regretful is the destruction of human lives taking place every day through abortion. Because they are an inconvenience to their parents and therefore not wanted, their lives are snuffed out without any regard for the many, many years of life they would have had before them if they had been allowed to live. No one has the power to see into the future to know what life had in store for them. Hitler was a wanted child. Artur Rubenstein was unwanted but his mother was dissuaded from having an abortion. Could anyone foresee the outcome of either of their lives? Being unwanted before birth has no relationship to whether a person will be wanted and loved in later life.

Only God can see into the future. God gives life and only God should take it away.

JANE HOWELL

Yes, Sierra Club Supports Coastal Plan

Hey, I-J! Let's get it straight. Yes, the Sierra Club does endorse the Coast Plan (as reflected in the Marin Group's enthusiastic support). No, the Sierra Club does not dictate Coast Commission decisions.

Your May 12 editorial infers (sic) that criticism of specific recommendations can be taken as "condemnation" of the entire Coast Plan. Ridiculous! The editorial refers to comments that I made at the plan hearing as an individual, not as a representative of an organization such as the Sierra Club. While I made "an appeal for a far more concise document" (as reported May 9), I prefaced my remarks with praise for the comprehensive background material that this study provides for its recommendations. . . . My suggestion was that a more readable simplified State document could effectively summarize the intent and priority of the Plan's numerous policies without overwhelming the layman with details.

The plan provides a carefully considered framework for the wise use of California's magnificent coastline. It deserves constructive citizen input — not blanket condemnation. . . .

Hospital District Board Has Blown It Again

Well, I see by the May 13 I-J that the Marin Hospital District board of directors has blown it again. You say they "hope to go to district voters" soon for "money to build a large addition," but have not taken into account expansion plans of Ross General, Novato General and Kaiser, despite a present 126-bed surplus in Marin. Lots of luck with your bond issue!

Fairfax.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

"All the leaders everywhere are the victims of the slump. Being President, or leader of any country during the last year was just like arriving at the crossing as the stop signal was against you. There is nothing you can do but just stand and watch, and you wait till somebody switches something over which you have no control.

"I don't suppose there is a leader today, who, if he had known what was in store for him, wouldn't have thrown the job right back in your face when offered it. It's just an off season for leaders." — Sept. 6, 1931.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By FRANK FARRARA

School Crisis In Schnecksville: Pencils Or Ballpoint Pens?

The Schnecksville school board was plodding through its agenda when a controversy arose over the purchase of pencils for the coming school year.

"I have a letter here from the Ultra-Hip Parents of Schnecksville stating that pencils are an outmoded tool of the past and we should switch to ballpoint pens," the board president said.

"I also have a petition from the Stage Coach Seven urging that we return to the use of slate pencils and slates.

"Judging by the number of people in the audience, there appears to be some interest in this matter, so I'm going to open it up to discussion."

TRUSTEE IVY CRAWFORD said, "As you all know, I campaigned on the issue of more ball point pens, so you know where I stand."

"I don't think we can make a decision without figures on the comparative costs," said Trustee Herb Whitman.

"As a mother of four, I think we should ask the parents what they would prefer," said Trustee Hortense Hilton. "It might not mean much to you gentlemen on the board, but cleaning off ink stains can be quite a chore. Chalk isn't as bad unless it's colored chalk. Why, I remember once when one of my youngsters painted a chalk mural on our living room wall and

"Get to the point," someone yelled from the audience, and the chairman rapped his gavel. "I'm going to open this up to the public later, and you'll all have a chance to speak," he said.

"I'D LIKE TO GET a word in now," said Trustee George Clocking. "As you know, I have been on the board for more years than I care to remember, and I have seen them all, chalk, pencils, and ballpoint pens. They are all fine educational tools, and we have maintained our high educational standards with all of them. I have talked to many of my friends throughout the community and there are some differences of opinion. Therefore, I think we should give everyone a choice. After all, we are here to serve the people."

"Get off the fence," someone yelled from the front row, and the board president rapped his gavel.

"Perhaps we should refer this to staff and have them take a survey," the board president said.

"That's just a stalling tactic," said Trustee Randy Colt. "We have to face the issue. We can't continue to run this district like they did in 1906. I, too, have kids in school and they tell me that pencils aren't relevant anymore. And another thing, gentlemen, do you realize that a year's supply of pencils means chopping down 437 trees?"

"THAT SOUNDS rather high to me," said Trustee George Gildey. "I don't think we should be steamrollered into switching to every newfangled, social experiment that comes along. I read a story about a district down south that switched to ballpoint pens, and couldn't compete in the inter-state pencil sketch competition.

"We're not asking that you throw out pencils altogether," said Mrs. Crawford. "We can always have a few around for art classes and such, or maybe as artifacts in the American Heritage course."

"I learned my ABCs back in Pocatello using an old slate pencil, and I got an A in penmanship, too. If I may say so, I believe the Ultra-Hip group is forgetting tradition," Gildey said.

"Just a moment," said the board president. "We don't seem to be getting any where with this cross-fire. I'm going to appoint a committee to make a recommendation — with three board members, the superintendent, an Ultra-Hip representative and a Stage Coach Seven representative."

"HOW ABOUT HEARING from the public?" a man shouted.

"I'm sorry about that, we've just run out of time, but we'll take this up again at a later meeting, and we'll let you know when it's on the agenda."

"Without prejudicing my position, I would like to ask the members of the Stage Coach Seven not to sign their petitions in crayon."

ART BUCHWALD

After All, How Many Americans Want Nice Guy In White House?

WASHINGTON — When Richard Nixon ran for president in 1968 his image-makers went to work to make the American people forget he was a tough guy and believe he was a nice guy instead. Out of it came the "New Nixon."

Gerry Ford has the opposite problem. He is known as a nice guy, and his image-makers now have until 1976 to make him into a tough guy. It will be a lot harder than anyone thinks.

"MR. PRESIDENT, we'd like to talk to you about the new Gerry Ford."

"Aw shucks, guys, I don't know if I want to talk about that. Does anybody want any breakfast? I'm making pancakes."

"There's the problem, Mr. President, in a nutshell. You're going to have to stop making your own breakfast. Nobody trusts a president who cooks in the White House."

"Gee whiz, that's the only fun I have in the morning."

"DO YOU WANT to be president in 1976 or don't you?"

"I guess so."

"Then we've got to change the picture Americans have of you. Now, for a start, we don't want you to release any more photos of you kissing the First Lady or of Susan sitting on your lap. It's too — too family. The only shots we want in the papers are you sitting at your desk firing a cabinet officer."

"I can't fire anybody, fellows. You know that."

"You're going to have to show everyone you're in charge."

"Whom should I fire?"

"It doesn't make any difference as long as you do it in public and you humiliate the person."

"I don't think I'd like that."

"IT ISN'T WHETHER you'd like it or not. You're going to have to do it unless you want Ronald Reagan moving into this office."

Larkspur Dance For Fireworks

A dance to raise money for the Larkspur-Corte Madera Fourth of July fireworks display will be held June 7 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Organizer Helen Sater said the dance is called "Rose Bowl II Revised," and said the auditorium will be decorated to resemble the old pavilion in Larkspur where the famous Rose Bowl dances were held in the past.

Two orchestras directed by Walt Tolleson will play music from the 1920s through the '50s. Marianne Kent will be featured vocalist.

Tickets cost $5 and are available from the Larkspur Chamber of Commerce. Persons must be 21 to attend.

Two To Graduate From Notre Dame

Two Marin students are scheduled to receive degrees from the College of Notre Dame in Belmont at commencement exercises at 2:30 p.m. next Saturday at St. Mary's Cathedral, San Francisco.

Marin graduates are Karen Howse, who will receive a Montessori diploma, and Claire Klunk, an elementary teaching credential.

BACKPACKING

... it's fun, educational and hard work

By PAT BALMES

Backpacking at Point Reyes sounded like fun when my family first talked about hiking with the College of Marin adult education family backpack class.

Our route would cover 15 miles in three days "within the ability of the oldest and youngest hikers, focusing on the ecology and scenery," according to the brochure.

But as my first assault on the wilderness approached, I began to worry. At 42, had I bitten off more than I could chew? I had never carried a pack (must less a 25-pound life-support system), or cooked on a portable stove or slept outside without a tent.

BY THE TIME we rendezvoused with fellow backpackers at the Point Reyes trailhead at 6 p.m. on a recent Friday, my daughters Kathy, 17, and Julie, 13, were raring to go, my husband was confident — and I was panicky.

However, our leader Sally Stapp, environmental education consultant for Ross School District, looked competent in her hiking shorts, and other class members (all younger than I) looked congenial. Backpacking was going to be fun.

We started single file on Bear Valley Trail on the 2.8 mile hike up to Sky Camp. Along the sylvan path Sally identified flowers for us and for Laurel Jensen, Kathy Korrane, Ruth Barton, Lynne Williams and her son Mark, 6. Backpacking was going to be educational.

We turned up steep Meadow Trail. My heart began to pound and my breath came in gasps. The backpack became heavy. The trail seemed endless. Backpacking was going to be work.

AFTER TWO HOURS we trudged into Sky Camp, a windswept high meadow with a few picnic tables, fewer trees, a pump, an outhouse and a garbage can. (I became fond of garbage cans when I learned that, on the trail, we must pack out our trash.)

Awaiting us at Sky Camp were Dan Campbell, co-ordinator of the college's Marin Adventures, and the rest of our class, with whom we had attended three classes to prepare for this venture.

Early arrivals Steve and Marsha Kent had strung a rain tarpaulin between some trees to make an outdoor bedroom for themselves and their two little girls. Anne Cook, her daughter and a teen-age friend had set up a tiny tent.

The sun set, a 30 mph wind rose; it was 40 degrees. Those who had not brought hats and gloves wished they had. Spirits were revived by cup after cup of hot soup and a flashlight-feast of macaroni and hamburgers. We had four hot meals that weekend for a total cost of $3.75 per person. Lynne Williams remarked, "I ate all kinds of things I do not like and thought they were good."

Fresh air sharpens your appetite and puts you to sleep quickly. Eating, sleeping and hiking filled our time.

WITH NO MORE trees available we settled for a lean-to, stretching the tarp from the hitching rail to our packs lined up on the ground. The wind whistled into the open end; I would have preferred accommodations behind the outhouse. Resigned, eight of us lined up our sleeping bags under the lean-to and climbed in.

I fell asleep immediately, cozy in two wool sweaters, a ski suit and a down sleeping bag. My husband froze. He had kindly taken our ancient Army-surplus sleeping bag, which tore when he rolled around trying to keep warm. He awoke with a mouthful of feathers.

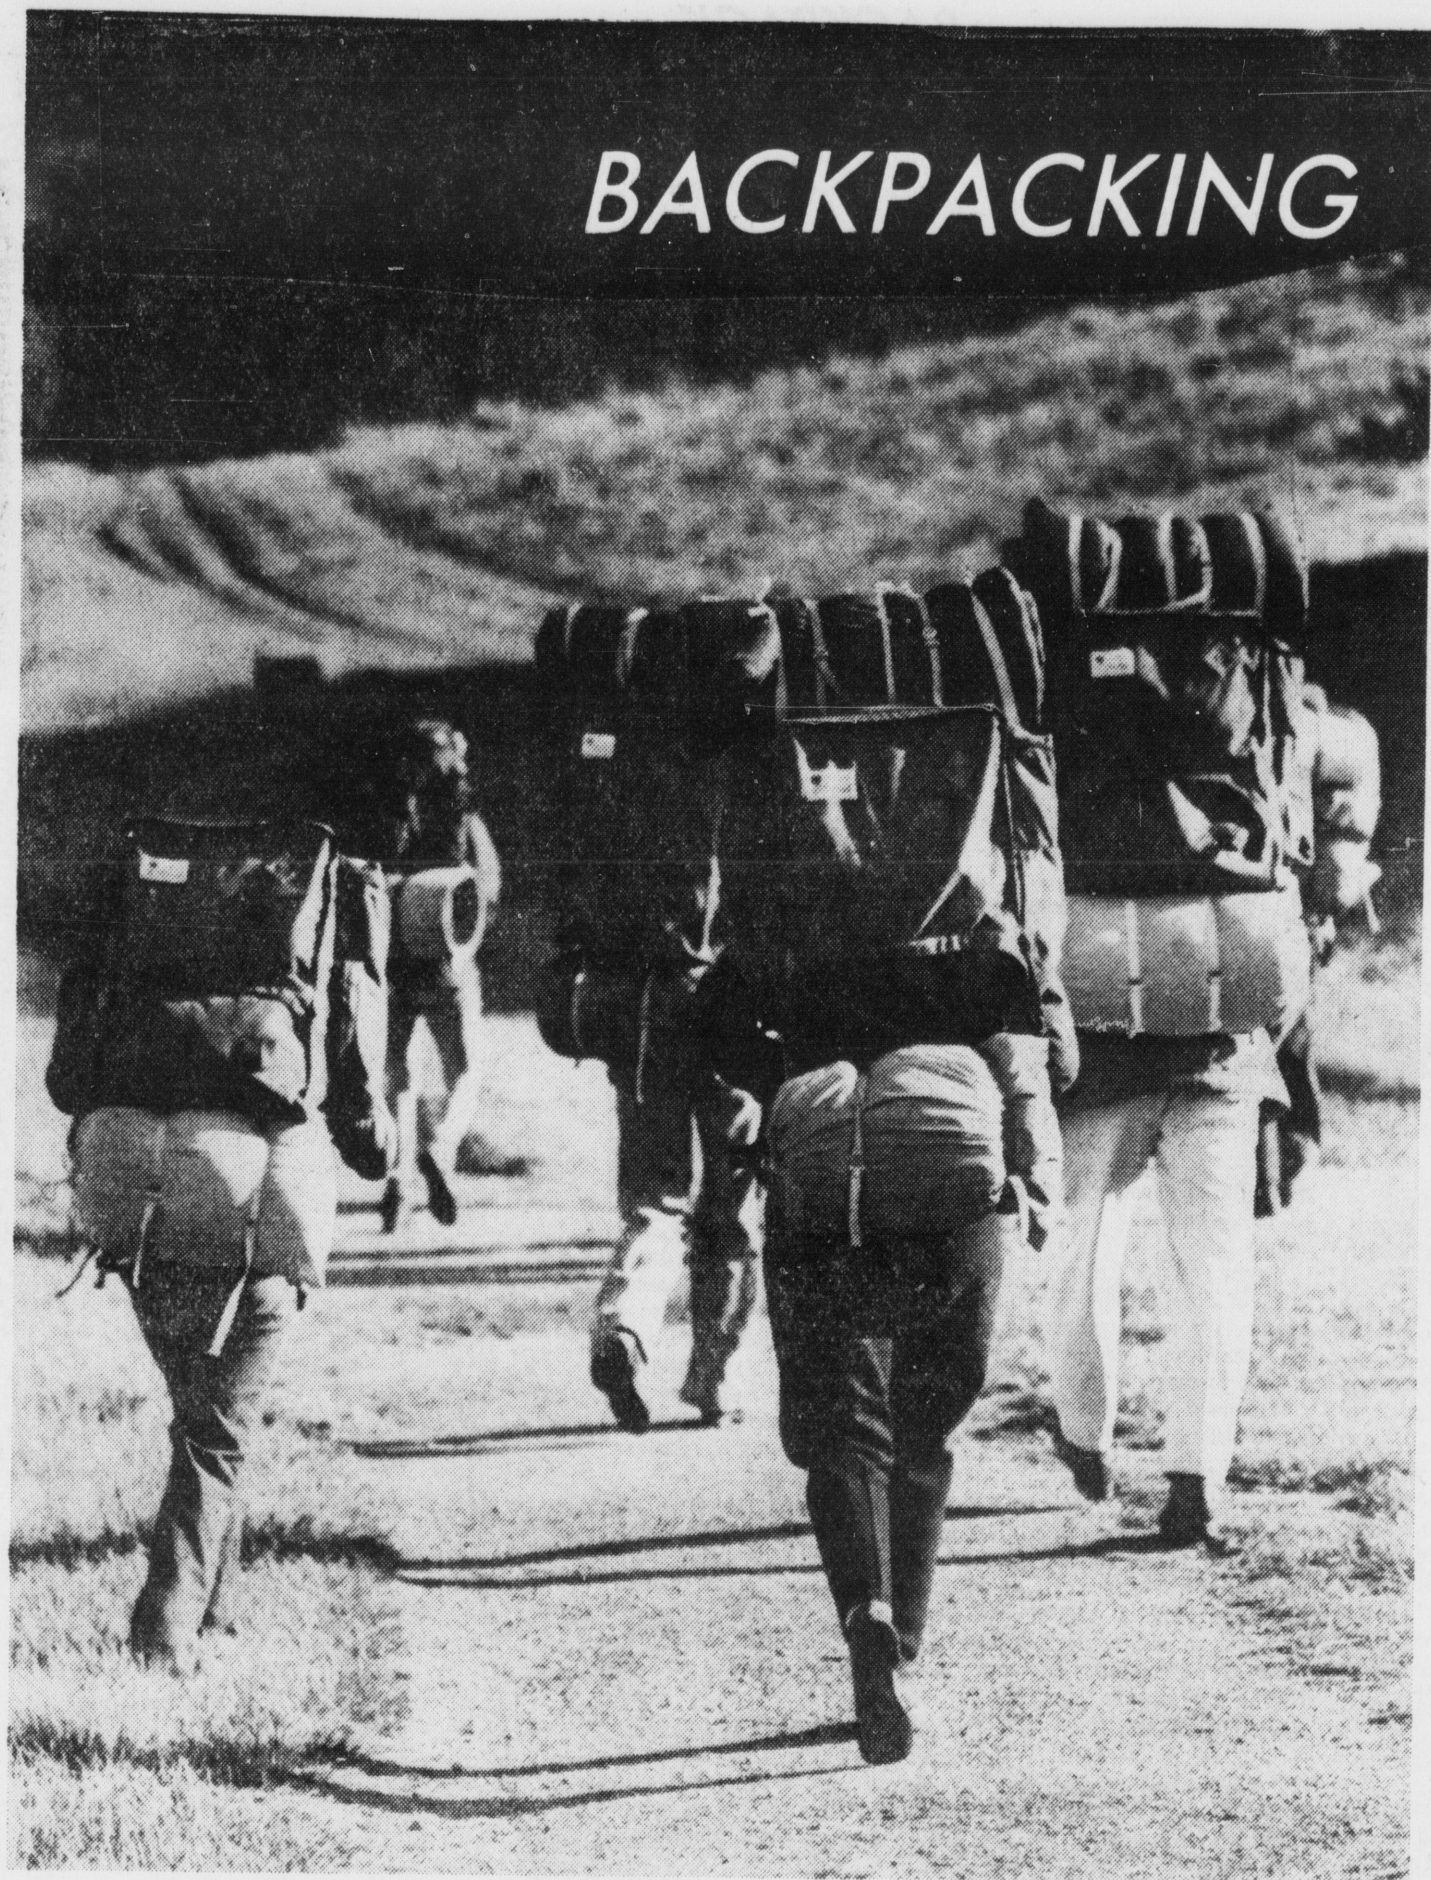

At dawn Kathy Korrane announced that she had never been so cold in her life.

On Saturday morning my first job was to wash Friday night's dishes under the pump; we had left them for the raccoons because it was so dark.

NEXT WE GATHERED at the picnic table, happy to have survived the night and rejoicing in the warm sunshine, to breakfast on hot chocolate and scrambled eggs packed in a canteen.

We were in high spirits as we started south on Sky Trail, burdened

Backpack regulations

Camping at Point Reyes National Seashore is restricted to four free campgrounds. Reservations are necessary.

Sky Camp is 2.8 miles from the Bear Valley Trailhead on the western slope of Mt. Wittenburg at 1,025 feet.

Glen Camp is 4.6 miles from the trailhead by fairly level trails, in a small wooded valley two miles from the ocean.

Coast Camp is eight miles from the trailhead on nearly level trails (or six miles over Inverness Ridge on steeper trails.), on an open, grassy bluff 100 yards above the beach.

Each of these camps has 12 campsites accommodating eight people each. Each campsite has a table, charcoal brazier with grill, space for tents, restrooms, water supply and hitch-rail for horses. Only gas stoves, charcoal or canned heat may be used for cooking fires. Wood fires are not permitted.

Wildcat group camp, seven miles from Bear Valley Trailhead by the shortest route, lies in a grassy meadow near a small stream. Each of its six double campsites accommodates 20 people.

Wildcat campsites have two charcoal braziers and two double picnic tables each. Stoves or charcoal must be packed in. No wood fires are permitted, although driftwood fires are allowed on the nearby beach. Sleeping on the beach is not only prohibited, but dangerous. Restrooms, water and a hitch-rail for horses are provided.

Campers must comply with the following conditions:

No dogs or other pets are allowed. A camping permit must be obtained. Only charcoal or gas stoves may be used for fires. Charcoal fires must be built in the braziers provided. No fireworks or firearms are permitted. Campsites must be cleaned before leaving. Quiet hours must be observed between sundown and sunup. Juvenile groups must have one adult for every eight youngsters.

Equipment

If you're going backpacking, dress for cold, rainy weather, but prepare to peel clothes off as the sun and exertion warm you. Wear a long-sleeved cotton shirt, under a wool shirt or sweater, under a windbreaker. Cotton socks, inside wool socks, inside sturdy hiking boots are essential.

For a three-day hike, take along two pairs of long pants, two cotton tee shirts or thermal underwear, one long-sleeved wool shirt, one wool sweater, two pairs of cotton socks, two pairs of wool socks, tennis shoes, hiking boots, underwear, long underwear bottoms (for sleeping), stocking hat, gloves, windbreaker and/or parka.

Personal gear should include flashlight and extra batteries, toothbrush and toothpaste, comb, sun screen lotion, sunglasses, chapstick, a small terrycloth dishtowel, mole skin and scissors for blisters, a small first aid kit, matches, journals, pen, compass, maps, binoculars, field guide, toilet paper, candle, soap and rain gear.

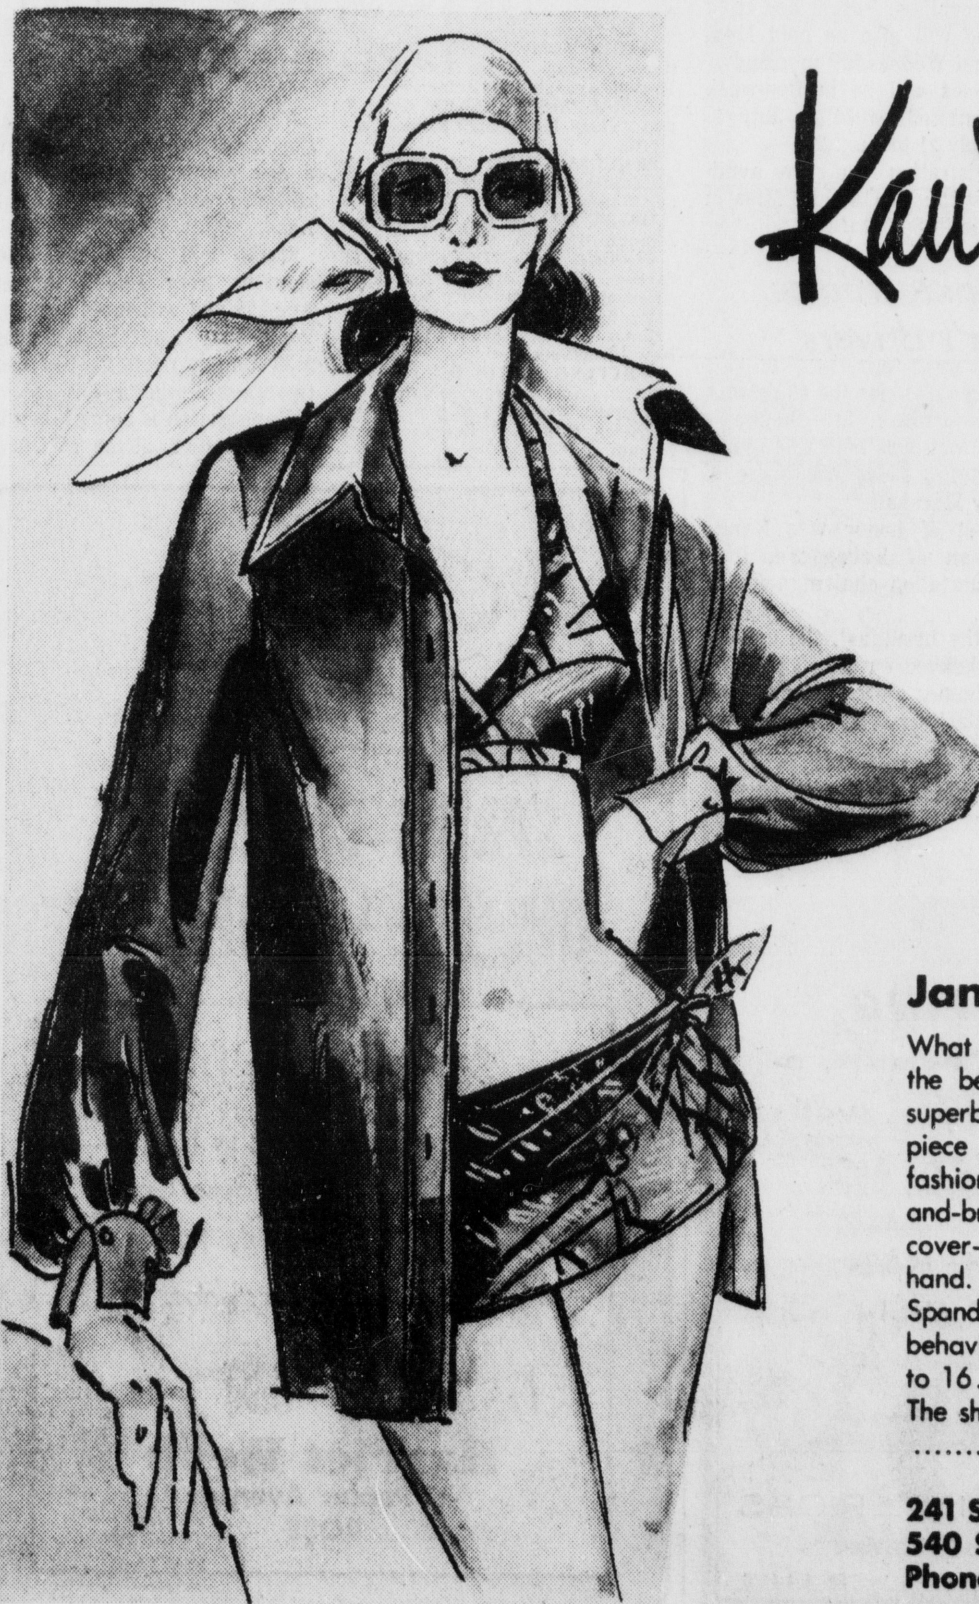

In the knapsack should go a cup, bowl, spoon, fork, pocket knife, scrubbing pad, can opener, soap powder, a two-quart pot, spatula or serving spoon and a quart bottle of water (most water in wilderness areas is not trustworthy).

Also tie to your rigid backpack frame a warm dacron or down sleeping bag, an ensolite pad to keep cold from coming up from the ground, a poncho (for groundcloth and/or rain-gear) and a tarp for every three people.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Person's own picture of self can lead to makeup mistakes

RAP: How can we tell a close friend that she puts so much make-up on her face looks like putty? I asked to do her face one night, and she looked fantastic. Everyone agreed. But the next day she was right back to the all the glop. What's her problem?

MARIE: Perhaps your friend is using make-up as some people use dark glasses — to hide behind. Ask her what she doesn't like about her face, and you may find the key to changing her opinion of herself.

It's crazy how we make our mirrors lie. The reflection we see is often nine parts "Yuk!" and one part, "Well, maybe it will do, with a lot of help from the cosmetics counter." — HELEN

MARIE: You might use this experiment we tried in one of my college classes. We named the physical things we liked least about ourselves. No one mentioned flaws the others considered noticeable... and we all felt better, knowing that even the most glamorous people worry about their faults.

When your friend realizes that only SHE thinks her makeupless face is hopeless, maybe SHE'll come out of hiding. — SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE: There's an older man at work whose back-handed compliments can really cut you down. For instance, he tells me I'm his favorite because he "likes

How to expand child's room

By EMILY MALINO
(Distributed by United Feature Syndicate)

Indoor space can be a real drag for the active child, and too little space means no room for play. I read recently, however, that builders were again cutting the interior square footage of houses in order to keep the price constant.

This is nothing new in the recent history of housing — rooms are smaller than ever, and the smallest room of all is the second or third bedroom. Instead of being the 12-foot-by-14-foot average of the pre-World War II home, the third bedroom is likely to be more like 8-by-12. And this is happening all over the country, much to the despair of the kid who likes to move around.

The answer to this universal space squeeze is to be creative. This means using vertical as well as horizontal space.

I've written about using the walls for storing everything from toys to clothes to jewelry. I've written about using baskets for just about any shape or size, or using wall-hung shelves for storing anything from books and records to sweaters and sea shells.

One of my favorite designs for children is an indoor rope exerciser. In a very small child's room, barely large enough for a single bed and a work desk and chair, I used a very handy, sturdy beam to hang a rope ladder and two parallel rings. These are suspended by hooks from the beam, so they can be easily removed, if necessary.

IN A STORAGE box in the closet (where I also stored the boy's clothing in an unpainted chest of drawers nestled under the hanging clothes) is a trapeze, which can be exchanged for the rings or the ladder as desired.

The bed isn't at all in the way. In fact, it makes a soft landing pad for your family Tarzan. The desk and chair are easily moved. In fact, lightweight mobile furniture is the only kind that really makes

Ah, you don't have beams. Cheer up, you can make your own. Beams are available at any lumber store and you can have them cut to size at the lumber yard. Just be sure they are properly fastened to the ceiling.

In a high-rise apartment house, for example, you will have to have an electric drill to attach the beam to the ceiling. Keep in mind that while your child may well be a flyweight, he or she could easily have a couple of chubby friends. And once you install your indoor gym, your son or daughter will have frequent hungry visitors, so be sure to stock up on apples and oranges.

If you have the horizontal space, there's no end to the indoor play equipment you can devise. My own children used a long narrow corridor for tricycle racing; it was almost as much fun and just as dangerous as those bumping cars at the county fair.

Maybe you don't allow wheel-toys in the house. A simple device is a small piece of finished hardwood, propped up on a cube to make a slide for the small ones. You can make the angle sharper as the child gets older by using a higher base.

CUBES MAKE great play toys. If you use a module of 12 inches by 12 inches and have enough of these around, your child can build a wall, a step pyramid, a stage, a chair, a table or any number of other things by simply clustering them horizontally or vertically in different patterns.

Whether you build out or up, do design a viable play environment for your kids. It will work miracles on rainy days and might even provide stiff competition for the boob tube, who knows?

like fur trappers, to walk the seven miles along a high ridge to Wildcat Camp.

The little Kent girls, Janeen, 4, and Alicia, 6, wore whistles around their necks "in case mother got lost." Dan Campbell mentioned that we should not discuss the distance because anxiety rubs off on kids.

Anxiety was beginning to rub off on me by lunchtime when I framed my teen-agers' blisters with moleskin. My knees and ankles were telling me that they were not designed for extra weight; it was enough just transporting me over hill and dale. My feet were saying that I should have invested in hiking boots.

I promised them that next time I would be careful not to bring heavy food or unnecessary clothes.

DAN CAMPBELL remarked that we looked like disaster victims as we sprawled limp in the grass. He offered a choice of Coast Trail, an 800-foot rise with a spectacular ocean view, or continuing on the easier trail. Wiser now, we chose the easier trail.

Makeshift packs were falling apart. A well-designed, properly fitted pack on a rigid frame is essential. Wearing a pack, you bend slightly forward at the hips. I could not see much higher than four feet above the ground or get my head back far enough to drink from an almost empty canteen. As I walked on slowly so I would last the distance, I saw my older daughter swinging up the trail like a zulu and my younger daughter visiting up and down the column, reckless of wasting energy.

Toward sunset the trail wound down to Wildcat Camp and I saw one of the white deer for which Point Reyes is noted. Goldfinches, wren-tits, California quail, redwinged blackbirds and white crowned sparrows abound there.

WE NIBBLED wild strawberries as we neared the beach campsite which is banked with yellow mustard bushes, white cow parsnips and blue pimper-nells.

Wildcat Camp is a field of nettles offering no windbreak except picnic tables. My family found a grove of trees above a babbling brook and slept there, protected from the wind. The next morning the ranger admonished us: we should have stayed in the nettle patch.

Another azure day dawned at Point Reyes. We had escaped rain. After oatmeal and dried fruit for breakfast, we sat around Dan in the grass for a map-reading lesson.

We learned that you cannot just take a compass and map into the wilderness without learning map-reading skills and expect to find your way.

WE HIKED five miles that Sunday above the loop of lakes near the ocean and lunched by beautiful Bass Lake. My feet were tired, but homeward bound. We rendezvoused with the Synanon shuttle bus at 2 p.m. which would take us back north to the trailhead and our cars.

Tired and dirty, we heaved our packs aboard, scrambled up, dropped into seats and waited for those arriving after us. Steve and Marsha Kent were last. After boosting her tiny daughters aboard, Mrs. Kent came in and said with relief, "We made it. Hooray for us." Everybody cheered.

PUTTING IT TOGETHER FOR KQED

Any child who walked past the "glue-in" at Northgate Mall in San Rafael Saturday was welcome to add a piece of wood to the very free-form art object shown here. The final result "looked like a mini-city," said Marin KQED auction publicity chairman Bobbie Baumgarten. The art work will go the highest bidder during the KQED auction on Channel 9 from May 30 to June 8 as a gift from the children of Marin to the public television station. At left is Paul Vine of San Rafael. Karen Sims of Novato improvises in photo above.

Beauty pageant seeks nominees

Contestants are now being selected for the Miss Sonoma-Marin Pageant to be held next month during the Sonoma-Marin Fair in Petaluma.

Applications will be accepted through May 31. Contestants must be between the ages of 17 and 25 years, never married and have lived in Marin or Sonoma counties for at least six months and the United States for one year.

The pageant will be held June 18 at 8 p.m. at the start of the fair. The winner will reign over the remaining four days of the fair and receive a cash prize of $300.

Contestants will be judged on appearance, ambition, intelligence, poise and personality.

Women interested in entering should contact the fairgrounds office in Petaluma.

Film, TV group picks president

Mary O'Connor of Corte Madera has been elected president of the Marin Motion Picture and Television Council. She previously served as president in 1971.

Mrs. O'Connor is also the vice president of the Northern California Coordinating Motion Picture and Television Council, vice president of Ross Valley Council Parent-Teacher Association, mass media chairman for the 14th district P-TA and chairman of Reviewing Stand North, a committee of the California State P-TA.

A native of San Francisco, where she attended elementary and high schools, she is a graduate of Ohio State University.

She is the wife of John O'Connor, an employee of the City and County of San Francisco, and mother of Mary, 22, Joanne, 19, and John 14 years old. Her hobbies are sewing, gardening and reading.

Other officers are Sue Verhalen, vice president of programming; Judy Masterson, vice president of television; Adele Ulman, vice president of motion picture; Gerald Foley, honorary vice president; Ethel Murray, treasurer; Yolanda Godfrey, corresponding secretary; Ronnie Perry, recording secretary; Shirley Keane, membership secretary; Marge Dunlavy, auditor; and Joan Reed, historian.

INDOOR GARDENS?

Touring farmer tells of self sufficiency

So you want to raise vegetables, but you haven't any room in your yard?

Gene Johnson of Portland, Ore., is in town to tell you how to grow food indoors. In window boxes. In the closet. Under your bed.

Johnson, who farms 157 acres in Oregon and hosts a weekly TV show in Portland, is on tour to promote "raising your own food to be self sustaining."

He'll lecture at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Room 322 at the Marin Civic Center, and at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Corte Madera Recreation Center. Admission is free.

He will have tips on outdoor gardening, too, but he specializes in advice on low-cost, high nutrition farming indoors.

He's a legumes enthusiast — "they're a 34% per cent protein product" — and promotes the value of mung beans: "there's more vitamin C in one-half cup of mung bean sprouts than in eight glasses of freshly squeezed orange juice," he says.

Anything you can raise outdoors you can raise indoors, only faster, Johnson says. You can also save substantial amounts depending on what you raise: "one pound of mung bean sprouts will cost you 50 cents at the market. One pound will produce 16 gallons of good delicious greens in seven days."

Johnson has set these priorities for being self-sustaining: having enough water for your needs, having an adequate food supply (which includes knowing what you need), and knowing how to preserve and store the foods you raise.

He will give out samples of foods he espouses including mung beans ("mung beans taste like the tender green peas that you break out of their pods") and dehydrated tomatoes ("when you can a tomato you lose 60 per cent of the nutritional value; when you dehydrate it, only 3 to 5 per cent. And the taste of a dehydrated tomato — it's tomato flavor magnified many times!") He'll show the versatility of dehydrated tomatoes by grinding them in a blender and making tomato paste, ketchup, soup and juice from the powder.

"People aren't used to this type of food, but when they taste it, they get excited," he says.

He has been sponsored in his speaking tour by churches, organizations and individuals, and will speak in Marin under sponsorship of Tex Pockrus of Corte Madera, San Francisco dairy store operator, and his wife, Helene, a nurse at Marin General Hospital.

Mill Valley writer receives Heritage award

Margaret Sanborn of Mill Valley received the Western Heritage award for the best regional history for her book, "The American: River of El Dorado," published last fall.

The award was given at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City last week.

The winning novel was James Michener's "Centennial." Winners were given plaques with a bronze reproduction replica of "The Night Herder" by artist Charles Russell.

Mrs. Sanborn's book, published by Holt, Rhinehart and Winston, Inc., is the 64th book in the Rivers of America Series.

Community Plan Passed To Board

The proposed Tamalpais Community Plan was unanimously approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The plan, which embraces Muir Woods Park, Almonte, Homestead Valley and Tamalpais Valley, is the result of more than three years of work by several hundred local residents and county planning staff. It now passes to the board of supervisors for review.

The plan was approved by the commission without public opposition and essentially as outlined at two previous public hearings. Some editing was done yesterday, however.

Much of yesterday's 90-minute session on the plan was devoted to the commerce chapter which had called for "relocation" of businesses at Tamalpais Junction to an area west of Shoreline Highway. At the urging of a representative of the Tamalpais Valley Business Association, the relocation wording was revised to merely reflect a concern for "redevelopment" of the Tamalpais Junction business community.

The commission also included in the 33-page plan a statement that the county should "prevent or minimize" development on visually prominent ridgelines in the community.

Other goals of the plan — a

local version of the Marin County General Plan — include maintaining the appearance and social and economic atmosphere of the community "as they existed in 1970"; preservation of the environment; and acquisition of the 101-acre Bothin Marsh.

As previously reported, the plan includes the Bothin marshland in 707 acres designated for open space and recreational use. Of this, 489 acres in Tennessee and Oakwood valleys are slated for purchase by the federal government as part of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

The plan calls for increased safety services, including new headquarters for the Tamalpais Fire Department. It also calls for signing along Highway 101 indicating that routes to West Marin other than Shoreline Highway are available.

Deleted yesterday by the commission was a proposal to create a pathway along Reed Creek to connect Stolle Grove with Homestead School.

"I think we've reached a balance here of all points of view," said Commission Chairman Jerry Friedman of the plan.

Third Term For President Of Art Fete

Tora D. Garaventa of Homestead Valley has been reelected for a third term as president of the Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival Committee.

Mrs. Garaventa, 37, originally joined the group with her husband James, who was then painting, but has since given it up. She remained with the group and eventually became an officer.

A native of Oklahoma, she came to San Francisco as a child and has lived in Marin for nine years. Her husband is building superintendent for the county. They have two children and reside with their family at 909 Greenhill Road.

She is a graduate of Galileo High School in San Francisco and Contra Costa College. The committee puts on the fall arts festival in Old Mill Park in late September.

Other new officers picked Wednesday: Maureen Gorman of Mill Valley, vice president; Mavis Batty of Mill Valley, treasurer; Mary Haupt of Mill Valley, recording secretary; and Louise Wolmuth of Corte Madera, corresponding secretary.

Husband Finds Woman's Body

A Greenbrae man found his wife hanging by a rope in their garage when he returned home from work yesterday.

The Marin County coroner's office said that Louise Palmer Alkire, 48, of 7 Los Cerros, had left a note on the kitchen table for her husband, Dale, saying that she was taking her life.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Russell and Goch Funeral Home in Mill Valley.

MUSIC REVIEW

Chuck Mangione Performance Does Things For Fairfax Hall

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Now and then, amidst the weekly deluge of rock and pop performances in Marin, there is a musical event that can truly be considered special.

Jazz composer and flugelhorn virtuoso Chuck Mangione playing two sets in a Fairfax pool hall would fall into that category, one would guess, with little argument.

Unlikely as it seems, that very thing happened Sunday night when Mangione's quartet held forth at Ron Barbarita's River City, fast becoming the best local hall (pool or otherwise) for listening to good live music in relaxed surroundings.

For this show, Barbarita, a former KJAZ disc jockey, constructed a portable stage, rented a special sound system, covered the pool tables to increase the club's seating capacity and sold tickets without any advance publicity at $6.50 a pop for the privilege of hearing Mangione, an old friend who had opened the Concord Pavilion the night before with his 35-piece band.

An audience of perhaps 175 persons, a cross section of the affluent hip, paid their money and turned out for the affair, which took on the ambience of a private party. For Fairfax, there was a discernible formal air, with many of the women in long dresses, silver and turquoise and the men in their best denim and leathers.

Mangione, a slight fellow in a pair of doekin overalls, his hair stringing down from beneath a Clint Eastwood gunslinger hat, wandered onto the stage, expressed bewilderment about where he was and kicked the band into gear with one of the many of his compositions that he would play that night, "El Gato Triste."

The quartet consisted of Mangione, alternating between Yamaha Flugelhorn and Fender Rhodes piano, bassist Chip Jackson, drummer Jo Labarbera and the brilliant Gerry Niewood, playing soprano and tenor saxophones, alto and flute and a variety of percussion instruments.

Much of the first set material was from Mangione's new album, "Chase the Clouds Away," his first release on A and M.

The instrumental prowess of the band was evident forthwith as the ensemble sounds flowed into the room as if from a single mind and the musicians, primarily Niewood and Mangione, stepped into the spotlight for solos.

Niewood displayed his considerable musical taste and skill on "Chase the Clouds Away," the album's soaring title track, and whenever he came to the front for leads, which was often, on the grab bag of instruments at his command.

Mangione brought a wave of recognition from the crowd with his familiar horn lick on the enchanting "Land of Make Believe," from one of his earlier LP's.

Labarbera was featured on the fiery "Enchano," and in the second set on "Windup Toy." Jackson, dispassionately holding down the bottom with his fender bass most of the night, took a confident solo

Three Receive Scholar Awards

Three Southern Sonoma high school seniors have been named winners of the outstanding student awards sponsored by the California Savings and Loan League and local member businesses.

The winners each receive a $100 cash award and medallion through a statewide $75,000 program designed to encourage academic achievement and participation in extracurricular activities, a league spokesman said.

Local winners are: William M. Vyenello of St. Vincent High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Vyenello of 637 Casa Grande Road, Petaluma; Andrew G. Mosher of Rancho Cotate High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Mosher of 7397 Boris Court, Rohnert Park; and Denise Maloon of Petaluma High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Maloon of 922 Samuel Drive, Petaluma.

Old Skull Found In Nebraska

OGALLALA, Neb. (UPI) — The partial skull of a rhinoceros believed to be from 30 million to 40 million years old has been excavated from a cliff wall along Lake Ogallala about 10 miles north of this western Nebraska community.

The skull was dug out Saturday by Chadron State College professor Larry Angebrand and a student archeologist following the discovery of four large teeth several weeks ago.

in the second set with a heavy layer of percussion beneath him.

It was an appreciative, attentive jazz audience, applauding at the conclusion of each instrumental lead throughout the evening.

For Barbarita, Mangione will be a tough act to follow. But among those in the audience

Connally Tells 'State Of World'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally — a month after his acquittal on bribery-conspiracy charges — made a speech yesterday that was a virtual state of the world address.

In a 16-page, double-spaced text that took 45 minutes to read, Connally stressed the interdependence of the world economy, urged the United States to take the leadership in returning stability to global finance, criticized Congress for the lack of a sound energy policy and called for better cooperation between the legislative and executive branches of government.

"What I have to say is not political. If anything, it is anti-political," Connally told the crowd of about 500 business, financial and government leaders at a luncheon.

Outstanding Senior To Be Named

An outstanding Marin resident will be named Senior Citizen of the Year tomorrow and a special award will be given for community service at a luncheon at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Fourteen persons have been nominated by various clubs and organizations throughout the county for recognition as the premier senior.

The community service award will go to someone not among the 14, but chosen by a committee, according to Edward T. Ryken, coordinator of senior citizens activities.

About 500 persons are expected to attend the luncheon, he said.

Those nominated for the award are:

Irene Froehlich, treasurer for the Terra Linda Seniors, is their nominee.

Mrs. Froehlich, 70, now retired after many years in the business world, was selected because of her devotion to the groups to which she belongs as well as to her family and friends.

She has been treasurer for the senior group for four years, and members say they find her bookkeeping invaluable. She also supervises other activities, including the purchasing of supplies.

Mrs. Froehlich also is a member of the Christian Church, where she directs sewing projects from the women's group, including the making of many lap robes for hospital and rest home patients.

Her home is at 225 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael.

Elнора Clark, a patient at Rafael Convalescent Hospital in Santa Venetia, is the choice of fellow patients and volunteers at the hospital.

Despite being confined to the hospital, Mrs. Clark, 68, manages to cheer other people through her music and handicrafts.

She often plays the piano for gatherings and is known for lending a helping hand to other patients.

She also participates in the hospital's program of telephoning shut-ins and knits, crochets, paints and makes other hand-crafted articles for friends and other patients.

Mrs. Clark is the wife of Lloyd Clark of Santa Venetia.

Wesley Metz of Santa Venetia, now retired, who worked 34 years as a grocery clerk in Marin County, is the nominee of the Retail Clerks Union, Local 1119.

Metz, 62, was a member of the union for 28 years, serving as president for three years and as an executive board member for 27 years.

When the union local formed a retirees' club in 1973, Metz was elected president and still serves in that capacity. Under his leadership the club has grown from 12 members to some 50.

The club has participated in numerous matters, many of interest to other senior citizens, including legislation.

Metz is also known for his willingness to counsel and encourage those in need.

His home is at 54 Sunny Oaks Avenue.

Richard C. Stephens of Greenbrae, a retired insurance agent, was nominated by the Mill Valley Seniors for his contributions to that and other senior citizens groups.

Stephens, 76, has served as vice president of the Mill Valley club and was instrumental in starting a bridge group which outgrew its original location.

He also started a bridge program for Whistlertop in San Rafael and is a member of the Sons in Retirement musical group, which plays for entertainments at various gatherings.

He and his wife, Lois, live at 461 Via Hidalgo.

Grant McCall, 66, of 49 Cole Drive, Marin City, is the nomination of the Marin City Seniors.

McCall serves as vice president of the senior group and also is a member of the North Bay Senior Planning Council advisory board.

A native of Lawrence County, Ala., he has lived in California since 1962. He worked in the construction field until illness forced him to retire.

Ruth Bowie, 60-year resident of Marin County who now lives at the Tamalpais in Greenbrae, is the nominee of fellow residents.

Mrs. Bowie, 87, long has been active in charity work. During World War I, she received a medal for raising $100,000 for fatherless children in France. She also was a volunteer for a Marin County orphanage for many years and was active in the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club, an organization founded by her late mother-in-law, Mrs. Lovell White.

Milo Bird of San Rafael was nominated by the Sons in Retirement, Branch 7, for his contribution to the education of children in the history of California and mineralogy as well as work with senior citizens in the county.

Bird, 70, is a retired structural materials engineer and research chemist for Standard Oil Co. of California.

He now spends considerable time lecturing to school children on such subjects as rocks and minerals, Indian life and the Mother Lode country, where he worked as a hard rock miner in his youth.

He also is past president of the Marin County Mineralogical Society and lecturer for the California Federation of Mineralogical Societies.

His home is at 105 H Street.

Callista Davis, active member of several Catholic and other local organizations, is the nominee of St. Rita's Senior Club.

Mrs. Davis is known for her willingness to serve on committees and transport friends and members to meetings or on errands.

She belongs to the Catholic Daughters, St. Rita's Church in Fairfax, St. Rita's Senior Club, the Native Daughters of the Golden West and the Fairfax Women's Club.

This is her second year as secretary of the senior group.

Her home is at 25 Park Road, Fairfax.

Isobel Morgan of San Anselmo, who at 88 still continues her volunteer work for handicapped persons in the county, was nominated by the Marin Chapter of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

More than 35 years ago, Mrs. Morgan helped found the chapter. The Marinadale School for handicapped children of the county also came into being principally because of her efforts.

She serves as an active volunteer in the Easter Seal Society's rehabilitation groups and is corresponding secretary for the society.

In addition, Mrs. Morgan serves with the Marian Visitors and the Marin Music Chest.

Her home is at 40 Ross Avenue.

Frances Manzoni of Novato, who has volunteered her help to the Novato Fire Department for more than 25 years, is the nominee of the Novato Senior Citizens.

Mrs. Manzoni, who has lived in Novato since she was married 42 years ago, has long been on call to the fire department, providing coffee and sandwiches during emergencies.

She also has given time to care for the elderly, helping prepare meals, giving rides and assisting in other ways.

When she worked as a grocery clerk for Rayburn's Market, she helped prepare Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for Novato's needy.

Her home is at 1101 First Street.

Jessie Leavell of San Rafael, president of the Marin Senior Association this year and active in a number of local organizations, was nominated by the San Rafael Goldenaires.

Mrs. Leavell is also a deacon and elder of the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael and has done sewing for Sonoma State Hospital patients for some years.

Last year she was "most excellent chief" of the local Pythian Sisters and for 25 years she has belonged to Neighbors of Woodcraft, for which she has served as sunshine chairman.

She has been a member of the Goldenaires since 1969 and has served as refreshment chairman, board member and is currently first vice president.

Alfred Weiss of Novato was nominated by the Marinwood Funsters, a senior citizens group in that area.

Weiss, 75, is noted for his friendliness and cheerfulness, according to members of the group, and for his support and enthusiasm for the recreation program for senior citizens. He oversees the pinochle corner at meetings.

Weiss's home is at 1304 Leafwood Drive.

Maud Novotny of San Rafael, an eight-year member of the Marin Senior Association, has been nominated by that association.

Mrs. Novotny also is president of the Needlework Guild, a Marin group which sews articles for the needy and those in institutions and rest homes.

She is a member of the San Rafael Goldenaires and serves on the refreshment committee of the Marin Senior Association. Her home is at 205 Laurel Place.

Lillian P. Loewy of San Rafael, president of the Gay 70's, was nominated by that organization.

Mrs. Loewy also is a member of the 50-Plus Club of the Jewish Community Center.

Mrs. Loewy is a pianist and often plays for the entertainment of her contemporaries and others.

Prior to coming to Marin two-and-a-half years ago, Mrs. Loewy lived at Hawthorne Manor in Los Angeles, where she was musical assistant to the activities director.

She now lives at the I and C Rest Home at 137 Park Street.

New Schools Chief Hired For Fairfax

Jim D. Mark, assistant superintendent for the Hillsborough City School District, is the new superintendent of the Fairfax School District.

The 45-year-old administrator was chosen by trustees for the $27,500-a-year post from more than 100 candidates. His selection was announced last night.

Before going to Hillsborough in 1968 he was an instructor in strategy for individualized instruction at the University of California at Los Angeles. Prior to that he was an elementary school principal and taught second, fourth and fifth grades in Orange County.

Mark holds a bachelor's degree in elementary education from UCLA and a master's in school administration from Long Beach State University.

While in San Mateo County he was a community leader for the Redwood City 4-H Club and a member of the county 4-H executive board. In Orange County he was on the Young Men's Christian Association board and active in the Boy Scouts.

Mark and his wife, Billie, have two daughters.

The new superintendent will succeed Dr. H. Reginald Hammond who left the district earlier this month to become assistant superintendent of the Fillmore Unified School District in Ventura County.

Tam Valley Man In Drug Case

State narcotics officers arrested a Tamalpais Valley man last night on suspicion of possessing cocaine for sale and possessing amphetamines.

No drugs were seized at the house of Noel Spurgeon Vivion, 24, at 1229 Lattie Lane, a spokesman for the narcotics bureau said.

The spokesman could give no further details of the arrest.

Vivion was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $50,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Five Marin Students To Receive Degrees

Five students from Marin will be among 210 students graduating from St. Mary's College in Moraga next Monday.

Marin graduates will be Ellen E. Descalso, San Rafael; Patricia A. Hammond, Novato; Laurie C. Packard, Corte Madera and Debora M. Cuneo, Kentfield, all bachelor of arts degrees; and Damian J. Casanuovo, San Anselmo, bachelor of science degree.

Doyle Drive Barrier Plan Is Endorsed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Board of Supervisors yesterday called for erection of a concrete barrier along Doyle Drive, the main approach to the Golden Gate Bridge.

By a unanimous vote the supervisors urged that a concrete barrier be built to establish three lanes in each direction. Supervisor Robert Gonzales said the barrier could be up by September if the state responds quickly.

As an immediate measure, the supervisors urged the state to rearrange the movable cones in the middle of the street to leave an empty lane, and reduce the speed limit on the approach from 45 to 35 miles an hour.

Doyle Drive has been the site of numerous head-on collisions. Supervisor Al Nelder said there had been 19 traffic deaths on Doyle Drive since 1968.

The State Department of Transportation will not even consider such a project unless the Golden Gate Bridge District abandons its current practice of providing a fourth lane into San Francisco during the morning rush hour, according to Thomas R. Lammers, department supervisor of transportation.

Lammers said that even if that condition were met there would remain the question of the desirability of inevitably adding 15 to 30 minutes travel time for morning commuters.

Councilmen Delay On Planner's Lot

The sticky question of Howard Johnson's minor subdivision at the end of Coronet Avenue was debated inconclusively before the Mill Valley City Council last night and then postponed.

Although the council did decide it will be necessary to investigate the three-lot split's environmental impact, it took no action on approval or denial of the subdivision itself.

Johnson, a member of the planning commission, agreed to put the matter over to the council's next meeting June 2. At that time he is to decide if he will agree to the long continuance which may be necessary to prepare and win approval for a full environmental impact statement.

If he doesn't agree the council must either approve or deny the lot split.

Some of his neighbors oppose his proposal to divide his hillside lot at the end of a cul-de-sac into three, with the idea of building two additional homes.

The planning commission had held that no environmental statement was needed, but the city council agreed unanimously with neighbor Sanford Feldman, who appealed, that an impact statement indeed is necessary.

Neighbors who spoke last night said the subdivision should be shelved because of traffic, drainage, earthquake, noise and view considerations.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

CONTRACTS — Awarded a $16,716 contract for sewer line replacement on Sycamore Avenue and $16,800 for more sewer work on Miller and Ethel avenues and Willow Lane.

MANAGER — Named an advisory committee to help it select a new city manager, and held a 10-minute closed session to consider the hiring, but took no action.

CLOSED — Met in closed session before the regular meeting to instruct its negotiator on contract talks with employees this year.

ROOMS — Overturned the planning commission and granted a variance for the addition of two rooms to a nonconforming triplex at 158 East Blithedale Avenue.

PARKING — Agreed to accept

$14,000 from owners of the Mill Valley market instead of requiring seven new parking spaces in connection with expansion of the market.

SUBDIVISION — Granted a minor subdivision to Charles Robinson to split a lot at 271 Buena Vista Avenue.

SYCAMORE — Authorized preparation of drawings for the construction of a road from Roque Morales Drive to the site of the new public safety building. A discussion of what needs the much-debated Sycamore Avenue extension should fill was set for June 2, with a final decision on the extension to be made June 16.

Councilman Jean S. Barnard was absent.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Teamsters Back Revised Farm Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. won the support of bitter union opponents for his landmark farm labor bill and ordered the legislature into special session today so the plan can be enacted for the autumn harvest.

The measure could be on Brown's desk for signature in three weeks, forecast Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco.

After a decade of farm labor strife, the new 37-year-old Democratic chief executive charged into a whirlwind of negotiations yesterday and accomplished what many Californians long believed was impossible.

He brought the Teamsters into agreement with Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers. He won support of the powerful California Labor Federation and the Building and Construction Trades Council. At the same time, he held on to endorsements of major grower groups.

And in its first legislative test before the key Senate Finance Committee, the amended measure was given a resounding 12-0 send-off last night.

It is Brown's hope to have the proposal, which calls for secret ballot union elections under the auspices of a state agricultural labor relation board, into operation by September for peak harvest periods, including the key grape crop.

"Our aim is to bring peace to an area that has traditionally been a jungle," said the governor's chief negotiator, Agriculture and Resources Secretary Rose Elizabeth Bird.

The bill sharply restricts secondary boycotts such as those used successfully by Chavez and permits harvesttime strikes. Elections would be held when half of the peak harvesttime work force petitioned the board, and workers could vote for any union on the ballot or "no union."

Chavez and grower groups supported the bill going into the unannounced negotiating session. Brown entered resisting any changes for fear of toppling the "fragile" alliance.

But he emerged triumphantly eight-hours later with four key changes that virtually wiped out major organized opposition. He met with supporters and reporters to sign the special session proclamation.

The agreements were: An amendment designed to assure that existing union contracts with growers would remain in force and not be automatically nullified when the law takes effect. Instead, the contracts would be voided only if successfully challenged at a union election. This turned the Teamsters, which now have about 400 contracts compared to Chavez' 14, from vociferous opponents to supporters.

The call for a special session so the bill can take effect in the fall rather than Jan. 1. This was a concession to keep the support of the United Farm Workers by allowing them to challenge important existing contracts immediately rather than having to wait until next year's harvest when enough workers would be on hand to meet the petition requirements.

An amendment to spell out that farm construction work would not be covered by the law. This changed the opposition of the Trades Council into support.

A "statement of intent" from the drafters of the bill providing that agricultural packing and processing workers can be considered as separate unions, apart from field hands. This brought endorsement from the Butchers Union.

With the affiliated butchers and construction council then behind the bill, the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO switched from neutral to strongly in favor of the measure.

A special session is needed to get the law into effect in September because of a legal prohibition against creating new agencies, in this case the state labor relations board, during mid-year of a regular session. Special session legislation, on the other hand, becomes law 91 days after it is signed no matter what time of year.

HOUSING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee has approved and sent to the floor a $950 million housing construction, rehabilitation and loan program sought by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

The Assembly-passed legislation (AB1) by Assembly Housing Committee Chairman Peter Chacon, D-San Diego, cleared the committee yesterday on a 7-3 vote.

A Senate version (SB2) of the same legislation is pending in the Assembly with a final draft of the two expected to be worked out in a joint conference committee.

Brown ordered lawmakers into a special session Feb. 17 to speed up creation of the proposed housing finance agency to administer low-interest housing loans from the sale of state bonds.

Supporters estimate the legislation would provide 18,000 new jobs and 20,000 new housing units during the first year and a half. It also is designed to assure that California receives its full share of federal rent subsidies in the years to come.

DEFICIT AHEAD?

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Republicans have warned that the state could face a budget deficit of $34.3 million next year rather than a surplus of $574 million.

The warning came yesterday from Assembly Republican leader Robert G. Beverly just a day before the Brown administration was to release revised projections on state spending and revenue for the 1975-76 budget year. Beverly based his statement on a report by GOP staffers of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Such a deficit would mean either a tax increase, something Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has vowed to reject, or deep cuts in state programs.

Beverly released a letter from the legislative analyst's office saying Brown has overestimated revenue to the state for fiscal 1975-76 by $150 million to $250 million. The letter was signed last Thursday by Chief Deputy Analyst John Vicker-man.

The Manhattan Beach lawmaker also said the governor has requested $234 million in augmentations to his original $11.3 billion budget.

"The governor is going to have to take a fresh look at the budget, reshuffle priorities, lower his expectations and cut some ongoing services if he is serious about fulfilling his commitment to hold the line on taxes," Beverly said.

BAY ESCAPES COASTAL FOG

Coastal fog and low clouds shroud most of the beaches south of San Francisco Bay while clear skies prevail over Northern California. A pattern of cellular clouds west of Oregon and Washington presages an invasion of cold air, in this National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration satellite photo made yesterday. A storm front that earlier covered the Pacific Northwest has moved almost due east, over Montana.

Sonoma Supervisors Review Master Plan

By ERNEST MURPHY

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County supervisors, attempting to give direction to staff members drawing up the county general plan, yesterday began reviewing a long list of proposed goals and policies which are to become the plan's foundation.

The supervisors generally made only minor revisions of a list submitted by two citizen committees which have developed the goals over the last three years.

The matter came before the board because two supervisors, William K. Johnson of Healdsburg and William M. Kortum of Petaluma, were not on the board when the citizen groups were commissioned, and both supervisors last week said they had little sense of the policies drawn up by the citizens.

The citizen groups had classified their proposals under six headings — managed resource production, natural and human resource preservation, public safety, shaping community growth, transportation and economic considerations.

In yesterday's all-day session the board made it through the first three sections and part of the fourth.

With each proposed goal, the citizens included a number of proposed policies to bring them about, and supervisors agreed among themselves to keep the policy statements general rather than specific.

The "managed resource production" section dealt mainly with natural resources.

The board decided its general plan goals will be to identify natural resources of significant long-range value and to establish programs to manage them; to provide for development and restoration of an "acceptable environment" around the steam geysers in North Central Sonoma, to protect and maintain farm lands, to provide for restoration of mining areas, to preserve and restore forested areas and to manage them to allow recreation as well as timber harvesting, to conserve and enhance marine and fresh water fisheries and to protect and maintain water resources.

The "natural and human resources preservation" section dealt mainly with archaeology, plant and animal life, recreation, geology and water quality.

The supervisors agreed goals will be to preserve archaeological and historical sites representing all past and present inhabitants of Sonoma; to assure Sonoma's diverse plants and animals and habitats are preserved and restored; to provide adequate recreation facilities "consistent with maintenance of environmental quality and protection of all property rights"; to safeguard and maintain areas of outstanding geological features and to safeguard and maintain natural waterways and water quality.

The "public safety" section dealt with earthquakes, other geological hazards, fires and floods.

Supervisors adopted a resolution to avoid land use threatening public safety and property values; to provide for a "risk reduction" and disaster preparedness programs where needed; to limit development on lands threatened by geological hazards and to identify such lands; to limit development on flood-prone lands and publicize their locations and to work with fire districts to regulate land use in areas threatened by seasonal fires.

The "shaping community growth" section, the most lengthy and complex part of the goal and policy statement, dealt with housing, commercial and industrial land uses and methods of controlling their kind and location.

The board yesterday decided it will be county policy to promote communication on housing matters between city and county residents and various local agencies; to insure that an "adequate mix of residential opportunities" is provided; to take "positive steps" in exploring means of providing public and private housing for poor and moderate-income residents; to support public housing programs and programs to rehabilitate substandard housing both rural and urban; to provide different kinds of housing as the market demands, including "experimental" types, but not to develop housing to produce market demand; to eliminate racial and ethnic discrimination in housing and to encourage housing using "alternative" energy sources such as the sun.

While supervisors amended some policies to insure they were broad rather than specific, several citizens were critical, and one woman who served on one of the citizen committees said the goals "read like motherhood and the flag." Instead, she urged, the policies should be specific and inflexible in order to serve as usable guidelines for drawing up the general plan.

"The object," Supervisor Robert Theiller replied, "is to accomplish something different than what happened in the Santa Clara Valley."

The supervisors referred the "shaping community growth" section back to a citizen committee because they were unsatisfied with statements it contained on growth and development.

The citizens had recommended that housing, commercial enterprises and industries be allowed to develop to meet existing needs and anticipated needs, but not "solely for the purpose of attracting the growth to create that need."

The board will hold another day-long session beginning at 9 a.m. June 16 to examine remaining sections of the proposal.

Malpractice Bills Moving In High Gear

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Despite opposition from insurance companies, an Assembly committee has unanimously passed legislation to immediately lower medical malpractice insurance premiums and get striking doctors back to work.

Hours before the committee approved the measure yesterday to immediately reduce medical insurance rates, the legislature began a special session to deal with Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s nine-point program for long-range malpractice reforms.

Special session bills were immediately introduced to solve the long-range problem by limiting the amount people could sue doctors, clamping a lid on fees attorneys could receive in malpractice cases.

Another measure proposed a state-financed malpractice insurance fund comparable to the unemployment insurance fund for jobless workers.

Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, who worked for a compromise agreement between the insurance industry, doctors and lawmakers to immediately lower premiums, said he hoped committee approval may convince job-boycotting physicians to go back to work.

The bill was approved by the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee on a 9-0 vote and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

The measure (AB928) by Assemblyman Robert McLennan, R-Downey, would require insurance companies to form "pools" to provide malpractice policies in areas of California where such insurance is not available.

Brown told reporters he did not have a position on the bill because he had not read the latest amendments.

The measure would immediately limit the cost of malpractice insurance for the next seven months to 50 per cent over the Jan. 1 pre-crisis level.

Edward Levy, representing the Association of California Insurance Companies, said his industry opposed the measure because it would force companies to use home, automobile and life insurance surpluses to create state-mandated reserves for malpractice policies.

McLennan predicted that his "urgency" bill could move through the legislature in 10 days.

Valerie Harper Takes An Emmy

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" ran off with six Emmy awards last night as the most popular weekly show on the air at the 27th annual Television Academy awards.

A pair of heavyweight dramas, "QB VII" and "Love Among the Ruins," each captured a half dozen awards as the best dramatic shows of the 1974-75 season.

Individually, the big winners were one-time "Our Gang" kid Robert Blake for best actor in a dramatic series, "Baretta," and England's Jean Marsh for "Upstairs, Downstairs."

Valerie Harper, in her first year as a leading lady, triumphed as best actress in a comedy series for "Rhoda." Tony Randall, whose series was canceled last month, won the best actor in a comedy series award for his performance in "The Odd Couple."

Sir Laurence Olivier and Katherine Hepburn, both winners of Oscars in motion pictures, were voted best actor and actress in a drama special.

The best single show of the year was "The Law," a hard look at the American judicial system which did not win a single other Emmy.

The British import "Upstairs, Downstairs," a story contrasting the life styles of the English gentry and their servants, was voted best drama series of the season.

"Benjamin Franklin," a four-part anthology of the life of the American patriot (starring variously Beau Bridges, Jeff Bridges, Richard Widmark, Melvin Douglas and Eddie Albert playing Franklin at various ious stages of his life) won the award for best limited series of the year.

"An Evening with John Denver" was acclaimed best musical special.

The two-hour Emmy award show from the Hollywood Palladium saw CBS win the network sweepstakes with 32 awards. ABC followed with 24 and NBC had 10. The Public Broadcasting System won five Emmys.

Jessica Walters won the Emmy for best performance by an actress in a limited series for "Amy Prentiss," in which she played a chief of detectives, an NBC show canceled earlier this year.

Peter Falk, who had won two previous Emmys for "The Price of Tomatoes" in 1962 and for "Columbo" in 1972, was voted best actor in a limited series, once again for "Columbo." Outstanding comedy-variety series of the year was the "The Carol Burnett Show," which won in that category last year and 1972.

Cloris Leachman, winner of a best supporting actress Oscar for "The Last Picture Show" in 1971 and two previous Emmys, was the only individual performer to win two awards this year. She won the best supporting actress award in a comedy for "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and for her supporting role appearance in a musical, the "Cher" show.

The Emmys this year featured nine of television's top leading ladies as hostesses. Presenting the awards were Beatrice Arthur, Lucille Ball, Cher Bono, Carol Burnett, Tressa Graves, Michael Learned, Susan St. James, Jean Stapleton and Karen Valentine.

Voted outstanding children's special of the year was the animated Christmas special "Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus."

In the sports awards categories, "Wide World of Sports" won two Emmys — for most outstanding program and outstanding broadcaster, Jim McKay. Most outstanding sports event was "The Jimmy Connors vs. Rod Laver Tennis Challenge."

Operatic star Beverly Sills' performance in "Profile in Music" won the award for outstanding classical music program of the 1974-75 season.

The best supporting actor awards went to Ed Asner of the "Mary Tyler Moore Show" for a comedy series; Will Geer of the "The Waltons" for a drama series; Anthony Quayle of "QB VII" for a drama special; and Jack Albertson of "Cher" for variety.

Patrick McGeehan won the Emmy for best single performance by a supporting actor in a series for "Columbo."

Supporting actresses winning awards were Betty White for a comedy series "The Mary Tyler Moore Show"; Ellen Corby for a drama series, "The Waltons"; Juliet Mills for a drama special, "QB VII"; Cloris Leachman for musical-variety "Cher"; and to Miss Leachman and Zohra Lampert (a tie) for "The Mary Tyler Moore show" and "Kojack" respectively.

Marin Brochures Now Available

An updated brochure on Marin's local governments has been published by the League of Women Voters of Central and Southern Marin.

Copies are available for 50 cents each from the leagues at Box 2174, San Rafael 94902, or Box 402, Mill Valley 94941.

The publication, entitled "Your County Marin," was put together by committees chaired by Martha Hollenbeck of Greenbrae and Betts Hackney of Mill Valley. It details office holders, the functions of county commissions and special districts, statistics on financing of local government, and other features.

It would be located at Lu Sutton School.

Survey responses are to be forwarded to the district office, 1015 Seventh Street, by Thursday.

Film On Marsh Will Be Shown

A nature film, "Cry of the Marsh," on the destruction of marshes will be shown Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Richardson Bay Wildlife Sanctuary in Tiburon.

After the film, members of the conservation committee of the Marin Audubon Society will discuss the status and future of marshes in Marin.

Also Sunday, the sanctuary will hold its regular two-hour nature walk at 9 a.m.

Exhibit

Artist Susanita P. Chipman of Novato will display her work through May at the Novato branch of the Marin County Library. The display features about 16 oil paintings by the artist, who has exhibited both in Marin and San Francisco.

TONIGHT'S TELEVISION

Unusual on television tonight:

KTVU (2), 7 p.m. — Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones will star in the movie "Oklahoma!" the story of two cowboys in love with the same farm girl, woven between memorable songs of the classic Rodgers and Hammerstein musical.

KCRA (3), KRON (4), 8:30 p.m. — Kate Reid will star as a Los Angeles police lieutenant investigating the murder of a wealthy businessman at a flamboyantly run Bel Air mansion, in the movie, "Death Among Friends." Martin Balsam and Jack Cassidy co-star.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), KQVR (13), 8:30 — George Kennedy and Joanna Pettet will star in the movie, "A Cry in the Wilderness," concerning a man bitten by a rabid skunk and fearing madness, chains himself in a barn.

Tower Blazes Blamed On Arson

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fire marshals say arson was responsible for at least two of seven fires that broke out last night in the twin 110-story towers of the World Trade Center.

Investigators have labeled the five other fires in the skyscrapers yesterday highly "suspicious."

All but one of the blazes were confined to small areas and extinguished quickly.

But 20 firefighters and eight women maintenance workers suffered minor injuries, mostly smoke inhalation.

Changing Fortunes Of Caldwell

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — One year ago, Mike Caldwell was 7-1 for the San Francisco Giants. This year, he finally has one victory after dropping his first five decisions.

Caldwell, who finished 1974 at 14-5, notched his first 1975 win yesterday as he hurled an eight-hitter and clubbed a three-run double in leading the Giants to a 6-4 win over Pittsburgh.

After the game, Caldwell paid special thanks to Giant pilot Wes Westrum for "continuing to show confidence in me."

Westrum said after the game that he had no intention of pulling Caldwell for a reliever. "I was going to stick with him come hell or high water," said Westrum.

It was the first complete game of the year for Caldwell, who underwent surgery on a painful elbow in the off season and feels he still "can't throw the breaking pitch the way I used to."

Caldwell had trouble with Dave Parker of the Bucs, who belted a two-run double and solo homer to carry the visitors' attack.

The Giants took the lead in the second off loser Jerry Reuss, 3-3, on a walk and singles by Caldwell and Von Joshua. They added four more runs in the third to make it 5-0 on a walk, singles by Willie Montanez and Chris Speier, shortstop Frank Taveras' throwing error and Caldwell's double.

San Francisco scored its final run in the fourth on a pair of walks and two infield outs.

Pittsburgh picked up three runs in its fourth on a double by Rennie Stennett, a walk, Manny Sanguillen's RBI single and Parker's wind-blown double. Parker homered leading off the seventh for the final run.

Manager Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates benched Richie Zisk against the southpaw Caldwell. Zisk, who belted .313 and had 16 game-winning hits last season, is batting only .266 with 10 runs batted in far this year.

Said Zisk philosophically: "I don't blame him for sitting me down. A couple of days on the bench won't hurt me. I've been fighting myself at the plate. I don't think I'll even take batting practice Tuesday night."

Tonight, the Giants will call on mammoth Ed Halicki, just called up from Phoenix, against veteran Dock Ellis of the Bucs, who sports a 2-2 record.

Kuhn, Alioto Talk On Area Baseball Teams

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn met for 30 minutes late Monday with Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco to discuss the problems of the sport in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Alioto has suggested that one of the two Bay Area teams — the San Francisco Giants or the Oakland A's — should be moved. The Giants are currently up for sale.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press has learned that National League owners have been summoned for a meeting in Chicago next Monday to discuss the financial situation of the Giants.

NL officials were not available for comment on the report, obtained from a highly placed baseball source.

The source said that it was expected that Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants, would ask the league to lend him money to finish the season or else take over the operation of the team.

Both the A's, who won the World Series the past three years, and the Giants have had declining attendance with the San Francisco team's drop the most drastic. The Giants lost $1.7 million last year.

LOOKS LIKE TRACK, BUT IT'S FOOTBALL

The spring practice season opened yesterday for the Novato High School football team. First order of business was getting in shape, which players did by running a mile and three quarters. Defensive back Dan Fox, far right, won in 10 minutes, four seconds.

Warriors' Bench Helpful

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "This is a team that doesn't know how to die," says center Clifford Ray, but there may be more to the Golden State Warriors' remarkable comeback ability than just a good team attitude.

The Warriors overcame a 19-point deficit to beat Chicago in game number seven of their Western Division playoff finals and then showed it was no fluke Sunday by coming back from 16 points behind to edge Washington 101-95 on the Bullets' court in the first game of their final National Basketball Association playoff.

The second game will be played tonight at 6 o'clock and will be televised on Channel 5. It will be played at the Cow Palace, the mammoth structure in Daly City across the Bay from the Oakland Coliseum Arena where the Warriors usually perform. The Ice Follies are using the Coliseum Arena this week.

In the big wins over the Bulls and the Bullets, coach Al Attles constantly put in fresh troops and the benchwarmers were the guys who turned the tide against Chicago and Washington, which pretty well stayed with their front line troops.

"We were getting good performances from the bench and you have to give Al credit," says superstar Rick Barry. "He stayed with them, even in a championship series game."

Thus when Bullets backcourt quarterback Kevin Porter got into foul trouble in the first half, the Bullets were unable to penetrate the Warrior defense without him and their offense sagged.

But when Butch Beard also got into foul trouble, rookie Phil Smith and his buddy, Charles Dudley, came on to score 20 and seven respectively and trigger a fast-break offense which dominated the second half by a 61-41 margin.

Another relatively unknown sub, Derek Dickey, turned in a standout defensive job on Bullets star Elvin Hayes.

"We're not a super basketball team," says Barry. "To win we have to work and that's what we did."

Barry added that without Smith and Dudley, the Warriors would be 0-1 instead of 1-0.

The Bullets bring two popular local stars back to the Bay Area. Coach K. C.

U.S. Tracksters Buzzing: Very Touching Farewell

SHANGHAI (UPI) — Uncle Sam's all-conquering track and field members began the second phase of their good-will tour today still buzzing about the way phase one wound up.

They weren't talking so much about how they decimated the Chinese in Canton, but how the Chinese wiped them out with a touching farewell from the heart that had to be seen to be believed.

It took place yesterday outside East Stadium in Canton where the Americans had just swept all 17 events for a total of 32 out of 33 in the two-day meet.

Members of the U.S. team had boarded buses to return to their hotel when they suddenly noticed the Chinese team they had beaten so soundly standing there on the sidewalk.

As the buses began pulling away, the Chinese athletes waved warmly to the Americans and applauded them. Townspeople lining the sidewalk also did the same thing.

"It was one of the most moving things I've ever seen," said Maren Seidler, the blonde San Jose, Calif., shotputter who was among the winners.

Despite the one-sidedness of the U.S. victory, the Chinese accepted their defeats gracefully, thus supporting their claim that with them in sports is friendship first, competition second.

The Americans finished 1-2 in every event but the 100 meters where China's Feng Chen-Jon was runnerup to Dr. Delano Meriwether, winner of the event in 10.3 seconds. Among the other U.S. winners were Keith Francis of New Bedford, Mass., Mike Slack of Fargo, N.D., Dick Buerkle of Rochester, N.Y., and Dennis Adams of Newagow, Mich. Francis took the 800 meters in 1:50 flat.

Some Hawaii In Fairfax

THIS AND THAT.

John Newcombe and the rest of the players on the Hawaii Leis of World Team Tennis will be in Marin County for a bit of practice before their match June 3 against the Golden Gaters in Oakland.

Most of the players will be practicing at the Canon Tennis Club in Fairfax May 29 through June 1. Thursday and Friday practice sessions will be from 10:30 a.m. to noon and the weekend sessions from 10 a.m. to noon.

Expecting a lot of interest, the Canon Tennis Club people say the Saturday and Sunday sessions will be by pass only, and passes can be obtained by calling the club offices.

Margaret Court, Kathy Kuykendall, Brigitte Cuypers, Tom Edelfson and Butch Bucholz will probably be there for all the sessions, but Newcombe will be leaving Saturday afternoon and won't be around Sunday.

The Leis this year are under ownership of Donald J. Kelleher of Kelleher Lumber in San Rafael. Kelleher is a Ross resident and that must make Ross the capital of World Team Tennis since two WTT owners live there. David L. Peterson, owner of the Golden Gaters, is the other.

GEORGE STEWART, former distance running ace from College of Marin, is doing a lot of running in the Army these days. He will be one of the competitors in the 1975 Interservice Track and Field Championships June 6 and 7 at Laney Junior College in Oakland. Stewart is a member of the West Valley Track Club and was named to last year's Pacific Amateur Athletic Union all-star team.

PETER ASHLEY of Greenbrae will be among dozens competing in the Pacific Coast Fencing Championships at Oakland's Municipal Auditorium Saturday through Monday. Ashley, a University of California at Santa Cruz grad, was third in the '73 Pacific Coast matches. He'll be competing with the best, including national men's foil champion Heik Hambarzumian, a student at University of San Francisco.

DAVID DEL GRANDE, one of our part-time sports writers at the I-J will be getting a little help when he enrolls at University of California next semester. The Redwood High School senior has been awarded a $4,800 Schenley Wholesalers Foundation Scholarship after winning national honors in test results compiled at Princeton University. Del Grande was also one of the 10 finalists in the Thoroughbred Racing Association Grantland Rice Scholarship at Vanderbilt University.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA GIANT Boosters are getting ready for another southern California journey. They begin the "great southern invasion" June 23 with a three-day trip to San Diego for four Giants-Padres games, a visit to the new wild animal park and a special get-together to honor ex-Giants Tito Fuentes and Willie McCovey.

Then the boosters head south again the weekend of July 4, to Los Angeles for three Giants-Dodgers games and a day at Disneyland. A complete schedule of the club's events and membership information can be obtained from club president Allan B. Murray at P.O. Box 570, San Rafael.

50 Miles Between Marin Baseballers

The Terra Linda and Redwood High school baseball teams will play their opening games in the first North Coast Section playoffs Friday an hour and a half and some 50 miles apart.

The goal of both teams, however, will be to return to Albert Park as regional champions for the finals May 30 and 31.

The Marin County Athletic League co-champions both made it into the NCS playoffs when Redwood was bracketed as an at-large team for the Region II series, to be played at St. Mary's College in Moraga. Terra Linda will play at Doyle Park in Santa Rosa as the regular MCAL entry for Region III.

Terra Linda will open at 5:30 p.m. Friday against an at-large entry, which will be either Richmond or Ygnacio Valley of Concord, depending on the outcome of the Alameda County Athletic League race. Vintage of Napa, champs of the North Bay League, will play Rancho Cotate of the Sonoma County League at 8.

Redwood will open against Pleasant Hill of the Diablo Valley League at 4 p.m. The Region II series will begin on Thursday at 4 with a game between Foothill Athletic League champion Alhambra of Martinez, and either Livermore or Monte Vista of the East Bay Athletic League.

The Region I series, at San Leandro, will include champions of the Catholic Athletic League (Moreau of Hayward), the Mission Valley Athletic League (Mission Valley or Irvington), the Alameda County Athletic League (Richmond or Berkeley) and the Hayward Athletic League (Marina of San Leandro).

The regionals will be one-game eliminations series, with the first round winners playing Saturday for the right to advance to the finals.

Tragic Story Of Two Pet Lions

Here's more on the story of the two mountain lions found shot to death and mentioned in this column last week.

A Richmond man, who raised the two mountain lions and kept them as pets for eight years, was forced to shoot them in self defense when they suddenly attacked him.

California Department of Fish and Game Warden Bruce Cochran said the man had kept the animals in a cage in his garage and did not possess a permit from the Department to keep lions. He said the man, whose name is being withheld pending possible criminal charges, suffered severe bite wounds on his arms and legs.

Cochran was first notified of the case by Contra Costa County animal control personnel after they discovered the bodies of the two lions in their disposal bin at Pinole. Noting that both lions had been shot in the head and that they had been decapitated, Cochran concluded they were pets who had probably turned on their owner. He requested newspapers to run the story asking anyone with information to telephone the Department. This resulted in several calls, one of which led Cochran to the man who was in a nearby hospital with his wounds. Wardens are investigating the other calls which may lead to other animals being illegally held.

THE FISH AND GAME CODE, as amended last year, makes it unlawful for an individual to import, transport, possess, or release live into the State almost any wild animal, bird, reptile, or fish without first obtaining a permit from the Department of Fish and Game. Permits to possess wild animals are given only after careful investigation of the circumstances and facilities of the applicant.

The Department considers it extremely unwise for any individual to attempt to make a pet of any wild animal and will issue permits only in exceptional cases. "Wild animals, of all species, lions, monkeys, deer, or whatever, no matter how gently they are treated and how tame they seem, frequently have a bad day and turn on their owners," said Fish and Game Patrol Inspector Dorrance A. Clanton. "Then the results are tragic, either for the owner, the animal, or both."

FIVE IMMATURE black swans, believed to be carriers of a deadly disease, were stolen from a group of waterfowl to be removed from the Palace of Fine Arts lagoon in San Francisco last month.

Sinaloa Runners To Regionals

SANTA ROSA — Five ninth-graders from Sinaloa Junior High School in Novato qualified yesterday for the North Coast Section track and field regionals to be held Saturday at College of Marin.

In a qualifying meet at Santa Rosa Junior College, Sinaloa's Mike Leandro won the 100-yard dash in 10.6, the 220 in 23.3 and ran a leg of the winning mile relay team.

Other Sinaloa runners who qualified were: Jim Weston, 440 and mile relay; Dave Coulman, mile; Clay Schaake, mile relay; and Anthony Harris, mile relay.

Department of Fish and Game wardens have been attempting to recover the birds which disappeared on the night of April 26 from an island in the lagoon where all the waterfowl were being held before shipment to Sacramento. They have followed several leads without success and are now seeking public help. "Anyone knowing the whereabouts of these birds could help avert a future outbreak of duck virus enteritis (DVE)," said Mert Rosen, DFG pathologist. "These swans undoubtedly are carriers, and they pose a threat to all waterfowl with which they come in contact."

THE SWANS, which are rare and valuable birds, may have been stolen in a misguided attempt to save them. More than 200 ducks, geese and other waterfowl species were removed from the lagoon and destroyed to prevent the spread of the disease. DFG and federal government experts are convinced that such action is the only way to prevent the further spread of the disease. Three years ago, when DVE broke out at the lagoon, 31 rare and exotic birds were not destroyed but were quarantined instead and eventually returned to the lagoon. It is believed that these birds are responsible for the current outbreak.

DVE is extremely contagious; two years ago, it killed 43,000 ducks in North Dakota. This time, the Department is taking no chances. The fish in the lagoon have been destroyed, the lagoon pumped dry and cleaned, and the lagoon, its surrounding walks, shrubbery and lawns are being disinfected. The stolen black swans are a loose end that the Department would very much like to clean up. Anyone with information about them should call DFG's region three headquarters.

Kapp Trial Set Back

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The trial of former pro quarterback Joe Kapp's lawsuit against the National Football League has been delayed, probably until around the start of July, according to the federal judge trying the case.

U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert had scheduled the trial for yesterday after allowing the league to present evidence on the "reasonableness" of the Rozelle of the so-called "Rozelle Rule," which limits a player's right to sign with other clubs even after his option runs out.

Sweigert yesterday continued the case until a similar case in Minneapolis is cleared up.

Marin Swimmers Break Records

Four members of the Marin Aquatic Club's masters swimming team are home today after a record-breaking performance over the weekend in the National Amateur Athletic Union short course masters swimming meet at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Jane McCollister, in the women's 55-59 age group, led the MAC effort by winning five events, two in national record time. She broke the mark in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:40.5, and shattered the 200 breast mark with a 3:38.2.

Nancy Rideout set a national record in the women's 30-34 class by taking the 200 freestyle in 2:13.4. She also had a second, third, fourth and fifth place.

Marin's Dore Schwab had a fifth, seventh and eighth in the men's 50-54 class. Roger Cummings swam in the men's 25-29 class but did not place.

Ali Ban Sought

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — An Argentine congressman yesterday asked the government to ban all future radio and television broadcasts featuring world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali. Rep. Lisardo O. Nicolich, a radical party leader, called Ali "unscrupulous and a circus spectacle."

MIKE BIRD
Stars in drive to co-championship.

PREP OF WEEK

Pitcher Bird Has Top Won-Loss Mark

By DAVID EINHORN

At the beginning of the Marin County Athletic League baseball season, no one in his right mind would have predicted that there would be a pitcher who would have a better won-loss record than Ed Andersen. But when the regular season ended, there was Mike Bird of Terra Linda with eight wins and no losses.

Last week, Bird won the final two games as the Trojans tied Redwood for the MCAL championship. He went the distance to beat Marin Catholic on Wednesday, 3-1, and he came back in relief to beat Novato, 7-5, Friday.

For his excellence in that stretch run, Bird has been named the Independent-Journal's Prep of the Week.

Throughout the season, Bird was the man Trojan coach Keith Fraser went to in the big games. In the biggest game of all, the senior right-hander outduelled Andersen as T.L. beat Redwood, 4-3.

"I wasn't pitching against him, but against Redwood," Bird said of that game. "I didn't care about what he was doing, I was pretty confident."

"Mike is extremely cool under pressure," says Fraser. "I've never seen him get rattled. He and Andersen are the two best high school pitchers I've seen in a long time."

"I thought we handled the pressure pretty good," says Bird. "There was a lot of it, especially in the Novato game."

Exhausted from his routine-giving stint on Wednesday, Bird nonetheless came in to relieve with one out, one run in and two runners on in the bottom of the seventh. Novato scored twice more on a passed ball and a double steal, but their hitting was effectively stopped.

"I knew we had to win for the championship," says Bird, admitting that "my arm was pretty sore after the game."

ty sore after the game."

In that contest, he threw mostly fastballs, but his "out pitch" during most of the season was what he calls a knuckle curve. It's hard to describe what it does, but suffice it to say that Fraser calls it "a major league pitch."

Bird is confident that Terra Linda can go all the way in the North Coast Section playoffs, "if we keep hitting. The hitting, especially by (Lloyd) Bonfante and (Rick) Owens, has carried us. It's the best I've seen it in four years."

Bird himself is a fair hitter, especially since "Fraser doesn't give us pitchers much batting practice. Maybe five swings a day."

In April 17, he collected two doubles and five runs batted in against Marin Catholic, and he says, "I guess that got my confidence up for the rest of the season."

Bird is a 3.8 grade-point-average student and plans to enroll in the University of Santa Clara next fall.

Gaters Edge Hawaii In Team Tennis

HONOLULU — Frew McMillan and Betty Stove teamed to beat Owen Davidson and Margaret Court in a tie breaker that gave the Golden Gaters a 26-25 win over Honolulu last night in World Team Tennis. The match was tied at 25 at the end of regulation play.

Weather, Gulls Are Bad

Combined AP & UPI

SALT LAKE CITY — The rain was bad but the Gulls were worse.

Hawaii's Gary Ross pitched a perfect five-inning game, allowing no one to reach base, as the Islanders blasted the Salt Lake Gulls 19-0 in a rain-shortened Pacific Coast League baseball contest yesterday. It was the first game of a scheduled double-header.

The Islanders sent 20 men to the plate in the first inning and collected 13 hits and 15 runs against Salt Lake pitchers Sid Monge and Steve Blatter.

All nine men in the Hawaii line-up hit safely with Jerry Turner leading with four hits in five trips and three runs batted in.

SAN FRANCISCO — Philadelphia shortstop Larry Bowa is the National League Player of the Week. The switch-hitter was named yesterday for batting 13 for 30 and sparking his team to a seven-game win streak.

NEW YORK — California Angels pitcher Nolan Ryan and Chicago White Sox shortstop Bucky Dent today were named American League Co-Players of the Week.

for the week ending May 18.

Auto Racing

DOVER, Del. — David Pearson of Spartansburg, S.C., won the rain-delayed Mason-Dixon 500 yesterday in a track record 4:55:52. Pearson, driving the only Mercury in the race, earned $14,925 for the victory.

Horse Racing

BALTIMORE — Jockey Jacinto Vasquez, who rode Foolish Pleasure in Saturday's 100th running of the Preakness, was fined $100 yesterday by the stewards for lodging a "frivolous" foul claim against Darrell McHargue, jockey of winner Master Derby.

Hockey

NEW YORK — The New York Rangers yesterday signed former Ranger player Ron Stewart to a two-year contract as coach. Stewart replaces Emile Francis, who will remain on as general manager of the National Hockey League Club.

DENVER — Ivan Mullenix, owner of the Western Hockey League Denver Spurs, announced yesterday he would spurn a National Hockey League franchise and would instead enter the Spurs into the rival World Hockey Association.

Tennis

BOURNEMOUTH, England — Manuel Orantes of Spain yesterday beat France's Patrick Proisy, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5, to win the men's single final of the $80,500 British Hardcourt Tennis Championship.

Track-Field

REHLINGTON, Germany — West German Karl Hans Riehm yesterday established a hammer throw world record with a toss of 257 feet, 6½ inches, beating the existing record of Russian Alexei Spiridonov by more than six feet.

Basketball

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Dave DeBusschere, in his first ruling as commissioner of the American Basketball Association, yesterday denied the Indiana Pacers' appeal of Kentucky's 95-93 victory in the second game of the league playoff finals in Louisville last Thursday night.

Namath Must Decide Fate: Jump Or Stay?

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — World Football League (WFL) president Chris Hemminger said yesterday that talks with attorneys for Joe Namath had reached the point the New York Jets quarterback must decide whether to jump to the young league for a $4 million contract.

"I think we've completed our negotiations," Hemminger said. "He must decide now. I am optimistic."

Hemminger said WFL officials and Namath's attorneys agreed during a meeting yesterday in Birmingham on new contract provisions that would pay Namath "a substantial amount of money but the performances those payments would be based on are substantial performances by Mr. Namath."

He apparently referred to provisions that would give Namath bonuses based on touchdowns, championships and the like.

Hemminger said Namath was not at the meeting but Namath and Chicago Wind owner Gene Pullano would meet today in Tuscaloosa, Ala., to discuss the offer.

Attorneys in New York were preparing a contract including the provisions discussed yesterday, Hemminger said, but he said he did not expect any announcement today.

"I would think that if there is to be an announcement of that nature it would take place in Chicago," Hemminger said.

The league offered Namath a $500,000 bonus for signing the contract, an annual salary of $500,000 for three years to play with the Chicago team, $100,000 annually for 20 years even if Namath is unable to play and 5 per cent ownership of a WFL franchise.

The Monday talks followed a weekend of meetings in which WFL officials approved new rules designed to prevent the kind of injuries that have sidelined Namath several times.

Slack finished first in the 1,500 meters with a time of 3:44.2. Buerkle ran off and almost hid in winning the 5,000 meters in 13:57.2 and Adams high jumped 7 feet 2 1/2 inches. The girls held up their end as well. Rosalyn Bryant, Chicago, capturing the 200 meters in 23.9, Robin Campbell, Washington, taking the 400 in 52.8 and Jane Frederick, Goleta, Calif., leading everyone in the 100 meter hurdles in 14 seconds.

"I think were more embarrassed about the way we beat them than they are, but we shouldn't be," said Irving Kintisch, an assistant coach with the U.S. team.

A second two-day meet against a team made up from athletes in the Provinces begins here Friday with a final meet scheduled for Peking, May 27-28, against China's National Team Members.

Chabot Golf Team Wins In Championships

VENTURA, Calif. (UPI) — Chabot, representing the Golden Gate Conference, captured first place yesterday in the Junior College State Golf Championships while Mark Helsing of Butte Community College was named best individual player.

Chabot came in with a score of 931 after the 36-hole tournament played over two courses—Las Posas Country Club here and Saticoy in nearby Camarillo.

Sequoias of the Valley Conference had a team total of 946 to finish second, while El Camino of the Metropolitan Conference was third with 954. Moorpark of the Western States Conference fourth with 968 and West Valley of the Golden Gate Conference fifth with 973.

Helsing broke a three-way tie for top individual honors in a playoff with Vic Wolfe of Chabot and Armando Claudio of San Jose City College, who all had tied at 143 after 36 holes.

Readmission Delay Looms

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) — China's readmission to the Olympic movement may be postponed until early next year but will come in time for Chinese athletes to compete in the Montreal Games in July 1976, according to members of the International Olympic Committee.

The IOC opens its 76th annual session today with the China question pushed into the wings by the crisis surrounding the Montreal games. But many IOC members looked relieved when told that work was resuming on the Olympic complex following a construction workers strike.

The Chinese have shown they are keen to reappear as soon as possible in Olympic sports and their application to rejoin had been timed so that the four-day session could reflect them.

China walked out of the IOC in 1954 when then-President Avery Brundage announced that Taiwan would also be recognized.

ognized. Taiwan is still an IOC member.

But IOC members pointed out the Chinese first must reform their National Olympic Committee to conform to IOC rules. The all-China Sports Council does not yet do this and for this technical reason their admission probably will be deferred until the next meeting during the Winter Olympics in Innsbruck in January.

In addition to the current U.S. track and field tour of China, the Chinese athletes will be coming to Europe later this month for the first time in more than 30 years for meets in Italy and Romania.

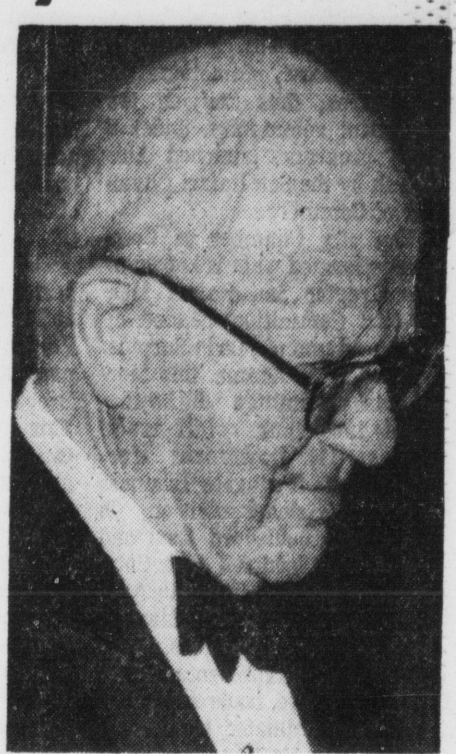

The biggest and final hurdle remaining between China and the 1976 Olympics is its recurring demand to oust Taiwan as a condition of its membership. The IOC, widely known as an autocratic, conservative body not always quick to follow world events, will not necessarily follow the lead of the United Nations and other international agencies which have done just this.

Nevertheless, several IOC members said this week they believe that the secret ballot, whenever it comes, will just give the Chinese the majority they need to rejoin the movement and expel Taiwan.

A three-man China sports council delegation, led by its Vice President Chao Cheng-Hung, has been keeping a very low profile and has not appeared at any IOC gatherings, preferring to meet Lord Killanin, the IOC President, privately.

China's most active supporters have been the Iranians, who have been lobbying in their support and said they intend to bring a motion at the IOC session to have China seated immediately.

The Iranians pointed out that the IOC voted 24-21 in 1951 to recognize Peking as the only Chinese national Olympic committee and that when Brundage announced in 1954 that Taiwan was also recognized by the IOC no vote was taken. The Iranians' argument is that the vote should be taken now. Following today's opening ceremony, the meeting will not get down to serious business until Wednesday when the Montreal organizers present their progress report and will have to field a host of questions about the progress of the Olympic site and organization.

Argentina Triumphs

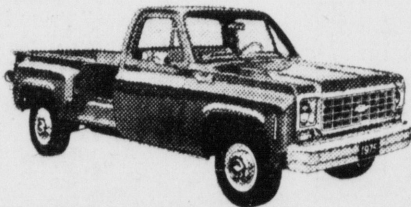

TOULON, France (UPI) — Argentina beat Hungary 1-0 and Mexico edged Portugal 2-1 yesterday on the opening day of the international youth soccer tournament here. Argentina will meet Mexico Thursday in the tournament's second round.

Nobody beats Chewy's prices on trucks like these.*

CHEVY STEPSIDE

Nobody beats our price on a full-size 6-cylinder pickup.

We're talking about our C10 model with the 250 Six and a 6½-foot cargo box, with a GVW rating under 6,001 lbs. The engine offers smooth overall performance using unleaded fuel. The truck can go farther now between tune-ups and other scheduled maintenance. And still offers many of the same Chevy value features as our famous Fleet-side.

CHEVY FLEETSIDE

Nobody beats our price on a full-size V8 pickup.

And that includes a 350 V8 and a cargo box in the popular 8-foot size. Fleetside also sets high standards with features like Massive Girder Beam independent front suspension with coil springs, High Energy Ignition system and tough, double-wall construction in front fenders, hood, cab, Fleetside body panels and tailgate. Front disc/rear finned drum brakes are computer-matched to gross vehicle weight. Available heavy-duty chassis equipment provides a 6,200-lb. GVWR for C10 Chevy pickups.

CHEVY VAN

Nobody beats our price on a delivery van.

Forward-mounted engine leaves nearly 10 feet of unobstructed load space, even in this G10 model on the compact 110" wheelbase. Yet Chevy Van has a tight turning circle for maneuverability. And a wide-opening front hood for 27 fast and easy service checks. Our 250 Six is standard on 6-cylinder G10 models; a 350 2-bbl. V8 is standard on G10 V8 models.

EL CAMINO

Nobody beats our price on a luxury pickup.

It's a car when you need a car, a truck when you need a truck. El Camino puts it all together: good looks, good ride, responsiveness, and a 6-ft. pickup box with air-adjustable shock absorbers. This one has our available 250 Six; V8 power also is available.

SUBURBAN

Nobody beats our price on a six-passenger Superwagon.

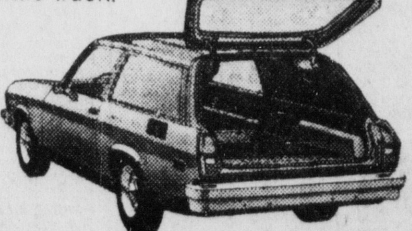

This Chevy Suburban, a C10 model with a 350 V8, carries six people comfortably. Other versions seat nine passengers or, equipped for towing, move up to 14,500 lbs. including weight of trailer, people, luggage and Suburban. Because under that wagon style and wagon smoothness is a tough truck chassis.

VEGA PANEL EXPRESS

Nobody beats our price on a closed delivery truck.

It's easy to maneuver and park and very frugal with unleaded gasoline. It delivered 21 mpg in the city test and 31 mpg in the highway test according to the EPA Buyer's Guide (credit light weight and our standard 140-cu.-in. aluminum four-cylinder engine). Raise the liftgate, though, and you see a flat load bed with 68 cu. ft. for cargo. Now that's a big little truck.
